Subjects, courses and any arrangements for courses including staff allocated as stated in this Handbook are an expression of intent only. The University reserves the right to discontinue or vary arrangements at any time without notice. Information has been brought up to date as at 1 November 1997, but may be amended without notice by the University Council.

CREDIT POINTS – IMPORTANT NOTE

From 1996, UNSW introduced a university wide credit point system for all subjects offered to both undergraduate and postgraduate students. The system means that a subject will have the same credit point value irrespective of which faculty's course it is counting towards. Students are able to determine the value of subjects taken from other faculties when planning their programs of study. The student load for a subject is calculated by dividing the credit point value of a subject by the total credit points required for the program for that year of the course. Student load is used to determine both HECS and overseas student fees. Students who take more than the standard load for that year of a course will pay more HECS.

Old subject measures have been replaced by new university credit points. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the credit point values shown for all subjects. However, if any inconsistencies between old and new credit point measures cause concern, students are advised to check with their faculty office for clarification before making 1998 subject selections based on the credit points shown in this handbook.

Welcome

In 1998 the students entering UNSW Law School will be a mixture of school-leavers, graduates from other disciplines, students who have begun but not completed another university course, people who left school some time back and are making a return to a study environment, and law graduates enrolling for a postgraduate degree. For the academic and administrative staff of the School, it is always a pleasure to welcome a new intake of individuals of richly varying backgrounds. We hope that you enjoy your time at the School and that it proves to be an intellectually stimulating experience in which your personal talents find rich and fulfilling expression.

Not all law schools are alike. Each has its own distinctive ethos and aspirations. Let me outline those which shape UNSW and will affect your experience here.

Some qualities relate to curriculum and teaching methods. One important feature of the School is its insistence on active learning. Lectures to large groups of students are unknown. Although resource constraints occasionally compel us to teach some subjects in slightly larger groups, the bulk of our teaching is done in groups of no more than 40. We call on students to prepare material before classes and to participate actively in classroom discussions. We are convinced that this is not only the right educational approach for intending lawyers, whose future careers will regularly make demands on their capacity to explain and argue about the law in an articulate way, but that it also develops superior skills of analysis, understanding and facility with legal materials. You will also find a more stimulating educational experience.

We are also committed to the principle of a relatively small compulsory core of subjects in the LLB curriculum complemented with a wide choice of electives. This breadth of choice is necessary if legal education is to provide the foundation not only for different specialisations within legal practice but for the wide variety of other careers for which it has become a prized form of preparation.

Above all, the School firmly believes that students matter and that their intellectual and professional development is a central justification and focus for its activities. In small-sized class groups we get to know each other as individuals, with first names being used by students and teachers in addressing each other. We appoint special tutors to assist indigenous students and those whose first language is not English. Student representatives are actively involved in School governance. The UNSW Law Society organises a wide range of activities including a program of distinguished guest speakers, moot competitions, the UNSW Law Journal and participates in conventions of Australasian law students. The School also helps students to obtain summer clerkships before final year and employment after graduation. Law Library staff are always willing to assist students to locate materials. The School also has a growing cohort of postgraduate research students whom it draws into the intellectual life of the School.

The UNSW law curriculum has a national outlook and character, rather than a parochial orientation towards practice in a particular jurisdiction. That national outlook, frequently bolstered by an international dimension in many areas of legal development, prepares students for careers in a diversity of jurisdictions and occupations.

Legal education is a hybrid of two elements. First, The Law School is part of the great university tradition of scholarship and intellectual inquiry for its own sake. In that character, legal education emphasises reflection, and the theoretical dimensions and systematic analysis of legal phenomena. The Law School encourages a spirit of adventure in the development of theory and has faith in its insight for the active use of law to reform our social orderings and to cast light upon their understanding. Yet the Law School is also a professional school which prepares its graduates for a diverse range of careers including, but not limited to, the practice of law. In this character, it has a commitment to the application of theory and legal doctrine in ways that are technically adroit, creative and imbued with high ethical standards. In law, thought and action are interdependent albeit in healthy competition and creative balance. The triumph of one over the other diminishes the strength of the whole.

An important dimension of the School’s character lies in the pervasive recognition of the aspirations for social justice that underpin law’s domain. In his welcome to the first students of this law school, the Foundation Dean, the Hon Hal Wootten AC QC, wrote in the 1971 handbook to readers such as yourselves:

“We believe that a law school should have and communicate to its students a keen concern for those on whom the law may bear harshly, either because they cannot afford its services, or because it does not sufficiently recognise their needs, or because they are in some way alienated from the rest of society. The poor, the Aborigines, the handicapped, the deviants, all need their champions in the law as elsewhere.”

This commitment to law being in the service of our community’s yearning for justice, and being in dialogue with politics, morals, philosophy and the institutions of economic action, is a central faith in the Law School and shapes teaching programs, research activity and the wider engagements of its members. We hope that you will contribute to those engagements and to the great discourse, across the generations, and with the central authority and questions of our age, in which law is intimately engaged.

We wish you a happy, exciting and challenging experience at the Law School. We hope that you receive an education that brings out the deepest talents, capacities and understandings that lie within each of you. We also hope that your years here will be so memorable and associations you form so rich that your attachment to the Law School will endure long beyond the period of your enrolment. May you take much from the Law School. May it also be a richer place for your presence.

Paul Redmond
Dean
The academic year is divided into two sessions, each containing 14 weeks for teaching. Between the two sessions there is a break of approximately six weeks, which includes a one-week study period, two weeks for examinations, and three weeks recess. There is also a short recess of one week within each session.

Session 1 commences on the Monday nearest 1 March.

This Handbook is divided into two main sections comprising undergraduate study and postgraduate study. Initially, course outlines are presented in each section, providing a guide to the degrees within organisational units. Read the opening sections of the handbook first, and then read the information contained under Course Outlines (Undergraduate or Postgraduate as appropriate). Detailed information on each subject can then be found under Subject Descriptions which provides full details of subject content, contacts and session/prerequisite details. Rules for progression through offered courses follow the subject description entries.

As changes may be made to information provided in this Handbook, students should frequently consult the noticeboards of the schools and the official noticeboards of the University.

Information Key

The following key provides a guide to abbreviations used in this book:

| CP | credit points |
| F  | full year (Session 1 plus Session 2) |
| HPW | hours per week |
| L  | lecture |
| P/T | part-time |
| S1 | Session 1 |
| S2 | Session 2 |
| SS | Single Session, but which Session taught is not known at time of publication |
| T  | tutorial/laboratory |
| U  | unit value |
| WKS | weeks of duration |
| X  | external |

Prefixes

The identifying alphabetical prefixes for each organisational unit offering subjects to students in the Faculty of Law follow.

General Faculty Information and Assistance

Enquiries about enrolment, degree requirements, progression within courses, career advice or any other general Faculty matters should be made in the first instance to the staff in the Faculty Administration Office on Level 10. If the Office staff are unable to assist, you will be referred to another member of staff who will be able to respond to your enquiry. Faculty timetables, examination information, requests for special consideration and official University forms are all available from the Faculty Administration Office.

Faculty of Law Enrolment Procedures

All students re-enrolling in 1997 should obtain a copy of the free leaflet Re-Enrolling 1997 which is available from the Admissions Section. This leaflet provides detailed information on enrolment procedures and fees, enrolment timetables by Faculty and course, enrolment as a miscellaneous student, and late enrolment. In order to assist the staff to get to know individual students, all new students are required to present a passport sized photograph when enrolling.

Provisional re-enrolment

With the exception of new students, all students must provisionally re-enrol with the Faculty in October/November of each year.

Guidelines for Maximum Workload

The sequence of study for each course is set out in the Faculty Handbook. Any student wishing to vary their course program (law or non-law) by enrolling in extra subjects, in a reduced program or in subjects which do not conform to the normal sequence, must seek approval from the Manager, Student Administration. Permission is given only in exceptional circumstances and on the basis of a written application submitted in advance of the relevant session or sessions outlining all the circumstances.

Full-time Status

Students are reminded that a full-time course program is intended for students who devote the principal part of their available time to their course. Any additional commitment, in the form of paid work, training for sport at a significant level of achievement or voluntary work in community organizations, is bound to have an effect on a student's work. Past experience shows that commitment beyond 10-15 hours per week almost invariably has an adverse effect on student performance and in some cases has led directly to failure. Students are strongly advised that, if outside commitment of this order is likely to be maintained consistently over a session, the commitment should be discussed in advance with the Manager, Student Administration. It should be noted, however, that it is the individual teachers who determine whether outside commitments should constitute grounds for consideration in meeting the requirements of particular subjects.

Part-time Status

Students undertaking the part-time course for Bachelor of Laws are expected to attend classes on two afternoons per week during the academic year, usually between 2pm and 6pm on Tuesday and Friday.

Assessment of Student Progress

Formal examinations are not the only method the Law School will use to assess students. Other methods of assessment include research projects, class participation, essays and moots (mock trials).
General Education Program

UNSW requires that all undergraduate students undertake a structured program in general education as an integral part of studies for their degree. The University believes that a General Education complements the more specialised learning undertaken in a student’s chosen field of study and contributes to the flexibility which graduates are increasingly required to demonstrate. Employers repeatedly point to the complex nature of the modern work environment and advise that they highly value graduates with the skills provided by a broad general education, as well as the specialised knowledge provided in more narrowly defined degree programs. As well, over many years graduates of this University have reported that they greatly valued their General Education studies, which are found to be relevant to both career and personal development.

The General Education Program at UNSW intends to broaden students’ understanding of the environment in which they live and work and to enhance their skills of critical analysis.

Objectives of the General Education Program

The following objectives were approved by the Council of the University in December 1994.

1. To provide a learning environment in which students acquire, develop, and deploy skills of rational thought and critical analysis.
2. To enable students to evaluate arguments and information.
3. To empower students to systematically challenge received traditions of knowledge, beliefs and values.
4. To enable students to acquire skills and competencies, including written and spoken communication skills.
5. To ensure that students examine the purposes and consequences of their education and experience at University, and to foster acceptance of professional and ethical action and the social responsibility of graduates.
6. To foster among students the competence and the confidence to contribute creatively and responsibly to the development of their society.
7. To provide structured opportunities for students from disparate disciplines to co-operatively interact within a learning situation.
8. To provide opportunities for students to explore discipline and paradigm bases other than those of their professional or major disciplinary specialisation through non-specialist subjects offered in those other areas.
9. To provide an environment in which students are able to experience the benefits of moving beyond the knowledge boundaries of a single discipline and explore cross- and interdisciplinary connections.
10. To provide a learning environment and teaching methodology in which students can bring the approaches of a number of disciplines to bear on a complex problem or issue.

General Education requirements

The basic General Education requirements are the same for students in all courses:

- Four (4) session length subjects carrying a minimum of 7.5 credit points each or their equivalent, in combinations of session length and year long subjects
- An additional fifty-six (56) hours of study which foster acceptance of professional and ethical action and social responsibility. This fifty-six hours of study may be distributed throughout the course, or exist as a separate subject, depending on the course. (In the Faculty of Law this is met through the completion of the compulsory subject Law, Lawyers and Society.)

Law students enrolled in combined degree programs are exempted from 50% of the General Education studies which would ordinarily be required. Students may be granted advanced standing for the General Education Program on the basis of satisfactory completion of subjects at another tertiary institution which meet the objectives of the UNSW General Education Program.

Each Faculty has responsibility for deciding what subjects are not able to be counted towards the General Education requirement for their students. Students within the Faculty of Law are given a wide choice in their General Education studies and may choose from any subjects except

- subjects offered by the Faculty of Law,
- subjects offered by any faculty in which they are currently enrolled, or in which they have previously completed tertiary studies,
- subjects where the discipline or paradigm base is considered too close to their present or past areas of study. Subjects offered by the Australian Taxation Studies Program (ATAX) and the School of Business Law and Taxation are excluded for this reason.

Students should consult the General Education Handbook for detailed information about what subjects may and may not be taken to fulfil the General Education requirements for each course offered by the Faculty. The General Education Handbook is freely available from all Faculty Offices.

Additional information for undergraduate students who first enrolled before 1996

Transitional arrangements

It is intended that no student will be disadvantaged by the change to the new General Education Program. The old Program had specific requirements to complete four session length subjects (or their equivalent) in designated categories A and B. The new General Education Program does not categorise subjects in the same way.
As a result, students who enrolled prior to 1996 will be given full credit for any General Education subjects completed up to the end of Session two 1995. From the summer session of 1995-96, students will be required to satisfy the unfilled portion of their General Education requirement under the terms of the new Program.

The exemption of General Education requirements for some double or combined degree programs will continue to apply for students who enrolled in these exempt courses prior to 1996.

Professional Associates

In addition to full-time teaching staff in the Faculty of Law, each year there is a small number of distinguished members of the legal profession in New South Wales who work in close association with full-time teachers. They participate in all aspects of the presentation of courses covered by their professional specialisation.

Prizes

A number of prizes are awarded annually. A full list appears in the last section of this Handbook.

Advanced Standing

The policy of the Law Faculty is to grant credit for subjects which have been successfully completed in another Law Faculty where those subjects, in the opinion of the Faculty, are equivalent in content and depth to comparable subjects at the UNSW. Applicants who have completed a full law degree in another country are normally granted credit equivalent to one third of the UNSW degree. All matters regarding credit are at the discretion of the Faculty.

Cross Institutional Studies and Exchange Programs

Students enrolled at UNSW may be permitted to undertake some studies at overseas or interstate institutions ("Cross-Institutional Studies") provided that they are equivalent in content and depth to comparable subjects at UNSW.

Subjects which have been successfully completed at another law school (either in Australia or overseas) may be credited to the student's degree. Students must note that the Faculty generally requires that at least 50% of law studies be completed at UNSW.

The Faculty participates in several overseas exchange programs, and encourages students to take advantage of these. Information regarding these programs can be obtained from the administrative staff or the Associate Dean.

Students should discuss their plans for cross-institutional studies with the Associate Dean or the Manager, Student Administration in order to determine both their eligibility to undertake such studies and the 'creditability' of the subjects under consideration.

Financial Assistance to Students

Full-time students within the Faculty of Law in need of temporary financial assistance at any time during their studies should be aware of the existence of certain grants and loans sponsored by some Sydney law firms. Students who feel they may need assistance of this type are invited to discuss their requirements on a strictly confidential basis with the Dean.

Other financial assistance

In addition to AUSTUDY financed by the Australian Government other forms of assistance available include short term cash loans and financial assistance to Aboriginal students. Full details appear in the University Calendar. Enquiries should be directed to the office of Student Services, Room G19, the Chancellery.

Commitment to Equal Opportunity in Education

It is government and University policy not to discriminate against students or prospective students on the grounds of sex, marital status, pregnancy, race, national or ethnic origin, colour, homosexuality, disability or religion. The University has committed itself to course design, curriculum content, classroom environment, assessment procedures and other aspects of campus life which will provide equality of educational opportunity to all students.

The University's policy of equal opportunity in education includes seeking wherever possible to ensure maximum participation of students with disabilities.

The University offers a range of assistance: examination support; specialized equipment; educational support; parking provisions; library assistance.

A Resource Guide for students and staff with disabilities and a map showing wheelchair access is available from the Adviser to Students with Disabilities, the EEO Unit, the Library and the Students Union.

It is advisable to make contact with the Adviser to Students with Disabilities prior to, or immediately following enrolment, to discuss your support needs. The Adviser can be contacted on 9385 5418 or at Student Services, Quadrangle Building.

The Law Faculty has endorsed the University's policy statement on Equal Opportunity in Education. The University operates a special admission scheme to encourage enrolment from members of disadvantaged groups. Questions relating to discrimination are included in the course and teaching performance questionnaires completed by students at the end of most subjects. The Faculty Curriculum and Teaching Committee monitors all course outlines detailing objectives and assessment strategy on a range of criteria including compliance with EOE policy. The Faculty is considering other ways in which the University policy might be developed and supported, including the establishment of a Faculty Equity Committee.

Equal Opportunity in Education Policy Statement

Under the Federal Racial Discrimination Act (1975), Sex Discrimination Act (1984), Disability Discrimination Act (1992) and the New South Wales Anti-Discrimination Act (1977), the University is required not to discriminate against students or prospective students on the grounds of sex, marital status, pregnancy, race, nationality, national or ethnic origin, colour, homosexuality or disability. Under the University of New South Wales Act (1989), the University declares that it will not discriminate on the grounds of religious or political affiliations, views or beliefs.

University Commitment to Equal Opportunity in Education

As well as recognising its statutory obligations as listed, the University will eliminate discrimination on any other grounds which it deems to constitute disadvantage. The University is committed to providing a place to study free from harassment and discrimination, and one in which every student is encouraged to work towards her/his maximum potential. The University further commits itself to course design, curriculum content, classroom environment, assessment procedures and other aspects of campus life which will provide equality of educational opportunity to all students.

Special Admissions Schemes

The University will encourage the enrolment of students who belong to disadvantaged groups through programs such as the University Preparation Program and the ACCESS Scheme. Where members of disadvantaged groups are particularly under-represented in certain disciplines, the responsible faculties will actively encourage their enrolment.

Support of Disadvantaged Students

The University will provide support to assist the successful completion of studies by disadvantaged group members through such means as the Aboriginal Education Program, the Supportive English Program and the Learning Centre. It will work towards the provision of other resources, such as access for students with impaired mobility, assistance to students with other disabilities, the provision of a parents' room on the upper campus, and increased assistance with English language and communication.

Course Content, Curriculum Design, Teaching and Assessment, and Printed Material

Schools and faculties will monitor course content (including titles), teaching methods, assessment procedures, written material (including study guides and handbook and Calendar entries) and audiovisual material to ensure that they are not discriminatory or offensive and that they encourage and facilitate full participation in education by disadvantaged people.

Equal Opportunity Adviser Scheme

The University will continue its Equal Opportunity Adviser Scheme for students who feel that they have been harassed or who consider they have been disadvantaged in their education by practices and procedures within the University.

Harassment Policy

The University is committed to ensuring freedom from harassment for all people working or studying within the institution. It will continue to take action, including disciplinary action, to ensure that freedom from harassment is achieved.

Student Equity

The University of New South Wales is committed to providing an educational environment that is free from discrimination and harassment. Both commonwealth and state anti-discrimination law requires the University not to discriminate against students or prospective students on the following grounds: sex, race/ethnicity, age, disability, sexual harassment, racial harassment, disability harassment, marital status, pregnancy, sexual preference, HIV/AIDS. Also included are acts of vilification on the grounds of: race and HIV/AIDS.
Complaint/Disputes

The University has internal dispute handling procedures to deal with complaints against staff or other students. The Discrimination and Harassment Grievance Procedures are handled by the Student Equity Unit of the Equal Employment Opportunity Unit. Complaints that largely concern academic matters are usually handled through the Head of School.

Advocacy and Support

Students can seek assistance getting disputes resolved, either in relation to discrimination or academic matters. Assistance can be sought from various areas in the University including:

- Student Equity Unit
- Student Guild Advocacy Service
- Student Counselling
- Equal Employment Opportunity Unit
- Course Co-ordinators
- Senior Academic Staff
- Heads of School

Students may be confident that their interests will be protected by the University if a complaint is lodged. This means that students should not be disadvantaged or victimised because they have, in good faith, sought to assert their rights to equal opportunity in education.

Student Clubs and Societies

Students have the opportunity of joining a wide range of clubs and societies. There are numerous religious, social and cultural clubs affiliated with the Students' Union and also many sporting clubs which are affiliated with the Sports Association.

Clubs and societies seeking to use the name of the University in their title, or seeking University recognition, must submit their constitution either to the Students' Union or the Sports Association if they wish to be affiliated with either of these bodies, or to the Registrar for approval by the University Council.

The Law Society

The Law Society is the students' body which you automatically join on enrolling as a law student. The administration of the Society consists of the Executive, the Council and various committees.

Members of the Executive, the Council and the committees are your representatives within the Law School. As such they are there to help with problems that may arise such as assessment. They are also there to ensure that an effective voice is presented to the School.

The Law Society organises social events, student publications, competitions and various other activities. The social events include first year camp, Law Ball, harbour cruise, sports events, intervarsity trivia quiz and regular drinks nights and barbecues. The Law Society publishes a magazine with contributions from students, called Poetic Justice; a weekly newsletter with the faculty known as Innominat; the Law Annual; the Alternative Law Handbook and a careers guide. The internal mootings, witness examination, client counselling and petty sessions competitions are also run by the Law Society. A speakers' forum with guest speakers from the judiciary, legal practitioners and public figures; is held weekly in the level 9 common room. Law Society has officers representing the concerns of International Students and grads and is involved in the Australasian Law Students' Association.

The Law Society office is Room 1112, Tel: 9385 2271, Email: mailto:lawsoc@unsw.edu.au

Law Library

The Law Library is situated on the eighth and ninth levels of the Library Tower and contains approximately 150,000 volumes.

During the first week of session, guided tours of the Library are conducted for all first year students as a component of Legal Research and Writing.

The librarians and the other staff members are always ready to assist readers to make the best use of the Library's collection. Further useful information may be found in the Library Guide, which is available from the Library.

The Law Faculty acknowledges generous sponsorship of the Law Library by the law firm Freehill, Hollingdale & Page.

Kingsford Legal Centre

Kingsford Legal Centre is the Faculty of Law's law clinic. The Centre provides a clinical teaching program for law students whereby students are able to analyse the operation of the legal system and lawyer client relationships while working on cases for real clients.

The Centre is one of over 35 community legal centres in New South Wales and students work with Centre lawyers in acting for members of the local community who cannot afford private legal assistance.

The Centre provides legal advice in a wide variety of matters and takes on cases in areas such as domestic violence, discrimination, housing, wills and estates, employment, family, criminal law and victims compensation. The Centre assists over 3,000 people a year.

The Centre began operation in July 1981. It has four lawyers, one of whom (the Director) is a lecturer in the Law Faculty. The Centre is jointly funded by the Faculty of Law and the Legal Centre Funding Program through the Legal Aid Commission of New South Wales and with assistance from Randwick City Council. In addition, the law firm Freehill Hollingdale & Page maintains the permanent secondment of a solicitor's position to the Centre.

The subjects LAWS7200 Clinical Legal Experience (Intensive) and LAWS7210 Clinical Legal Experience, are electives for later year students; students can take a subject in either session. Both subjects are available over summer. Students take instructions from clients, prepare necessary documents, undertake legal research and are responsible for preparation of any Court hearings. In this way, students can consolidate their study of the law by practical application. Small group classes and constant consultation with the lawyers provide an opportunity for students to analyse both their role as lawyers and the role of law in society. 25 volunteer solicitors and barristers participate in public advice sessions in the evenings and provide a legal mentoring scheme for students at the Centre.

In its community legal centre function the Centre has been prominent in several areas, particularly anti-discrimination and domestic violence. Students are also involved in reform campaigns, policy work and education services to the local community.

The staff at the Centre are: Frances Gibson, Director and Lecturer; John Godwin, Solicitor/Lecturer; Anna Cody, Solicitor/Lecturer; Zoe Matis, Administrator; Kym Bedford, Administrative Assistant; and a seconded solicitor from Freehill Hollingdale & Page.

The Centres’ postal address is 11 Rainbow Street Kingsford NSW 2032 Australia. The Centre’s contact numbers are telephone (02) 9398 6366; Facsimile (02) 9399 6683; TTY (02) 9314 6430 and Email address; legal@unsw.edu.au.

Indigenous Law Centre

Established within the Faculty of Law in 1981. The Centre aims to develop and coordinate research, teaching and dissemination of information in the multi-disciplinary area of the relationship between Aboriginal peoples and the law.

Some of the objectives of the Centre are:

- to provide a focus for, and to foster research concerning Aboriginal peoples and the law;
- to achieve publication of the results of research undertaken by individuals working with the Centre or independently of the Centre;
- to disseminate information concerning Aboriginal peoples and the law to interested individuals and bodies throughout Australia and abroad;
- to organise and participate in conferences and seminars from time to time;
- to encourage the development of curricula and teaching materials in the field of Aboriginal peoples and the law for use in the University of New South Wales and elsewhere.

The Centre publishes the Indigenous Law Bulletin nine times per year and the Australian Indigenous Law Reporter four times per year. For further information contact Mr Peter Brock. (Tel: 9385 1266)

Human Rights Centre

The Centre was established in August 1986. The objectives of the Centre are: to undertake, encourage and facilitate research (including postgraduate research) in the field of human rights; to coordinate and develop subjects in the field of human rights including the establishment of cross-faculty teaching linkages; to conduct specialized human rights courses of a continuing education nature for various professional groups; to promote and stimulate informed thinking about human rights and their implications for law and society through excellence in analysis and research; to organise occasional conferences for both specialist and non-specialist groups and assist in similar activity by others; to assist, in association with other relevant bodies, in the dissemination of information about human rights to the broader community; and to collaborate with a variety of bodies and individuals working in the human rights area at the national, regional and international levels.

The Centre publishes the Australian Journal of Human Rights and the Human Rights Defender. The Centre has recently promoted the establishment of the Australian Human Rights Information Centre which is setting up a comprehensive database and document collection on human rights.

For further information contact the Director, Or Sarah Pritchard, (Tel; 9385 2224).

European Law Centre

The European Law Centre was established in 1996. The Centre’s objectives are to advance research into, and the graduate study of, European Law and European legal and political institutions particularly with a view to fostering interdisciplinary studies in:

- European Community law.
- European Comparative Law.
- European and Comparative Human Rights.
- European integration.
- The framework of economic, trade and political co-operation between Europe and the Australasian region.
- Workable models for regional economic and political co-operation which may be of use in Australia’s own region.

For further information contact the Director, Dr Stephen Hall (tel; 9385 2189), or Professor George Winterton (tel 9385 2245).

Australian Taxation Studies Program (ATAX)

This major distance distance education program was established in 1990 by the Faculty of Law and the Faculty of Commerce and Economics. A separate handbook is produced for ATAX courses.
Continuing Legal Education Unit

The Continuing Legal Education Unit (CLE) provides high quality professional education for lawyers and other professionals. CLE provides an important link between the Faculty of Law, the legal profession in Australia and the wider national and international community.

The objectives of the CLE program are:

- to provide courses which meet the legally-related educational needs of professional groups, especially but not limited to, lawyers;
- to develop the image of the Faculty as being in the forefront of legal development in key areas and active in legal criticism by running high quality educational programs in these areas; and
- to derive income from the conduct of programs for the Faculty's purposes.

The range of programs offered includes:

- evening or day time seminars designed to update the knowledge of legal practitioners and other professionals;
- conferences which provide a forum for discussion of and training in new or developing areas of law and legal practice;
- legal skills and accreditation courses for lawyers and non-lawyers in areas of practice and procedure such as, immigration law and legal research;
- short courses in substantive law for particular professional groups, including professionals from foreign jurisdictions.

For further information on particular CLE activities please contact the Director, Cheryl White (Tel: 9385 2267 or Fax: 9385 1155). http://www.austlii.edu.au/arkady/unsw/cle/

Communications Law Centre

The Communications Law Centre is a public interest research, teaching and public education centre, specialising in media and communications law and policy. It also operates a specialist legal practice. It seeks to integrate these different activities to develop new ways of looking at communications issues and new solutions to the public policy questions they raise. The Centre's role is to ensure that the public interest in media and communications is articulated and advanced.

Particular areas of law in which the Centre specialises include; broadcasting, radiocommunications, telecommunications, defamation and free speech, media complaints processes, freedom of information, and privacy. The Centre regularly makes submissions to government and other inquiries on communications matters. Located on campus at UNSW, the Centre cooperates with the Law School in research and teaching, as well as organising seminars and conferences, collecting and disseminating specialist legal information, and publishing research papers and a monthly magazine, Communications Update. It publishes a comprehensive guide to Australian Telecommunications Regulation and maintains a specialist library, which is open to students and the public. Volunteer assistance from students and other is welcomed in appropriate projects.

The Centre was established in Sydney in 1988 and Melbourne in 1990. It is affiliated with the University of New South Wales and the Victorian University of Technology.

The Centre is an initiative of the Law Foundation of New South Wales. It also receives grants from the Australian Film Commission, the Reichstein Foundation and the Myer Foundation.

For more information contact Director, Jock Given or Administrator, Antonia Norton (Tel: 9663 0551).

National Children's and Youth Law Centre

The National Children's and Youth Law Centre is a community legal centre which aims to promote the rights and interests of children and young people throughout Australia. The Centre is a joint project of the University of New South Wales, the University of Sydney, and the Public Interest Advocacy Centre. The Centre occupies premises provided by the University of New South Wales at 32 Botany Street, Randwick.

The Centre publishes a quarterly bulletin, Rights Now which contains news and comments on a variety of children's rights issues. The Centre has a highly successful publications program consisting of discussion papers, research kits and also conducts projects and research and policy work on a number of youth legal and rights issues. It also conducts case work and litigation where the issues are significant to Australian children and young people. The Centre can be contacted by telephone (02) 9398 7488, fax (02) 9398 7416 or by mail via UNSW, Sydney NSW 2052.
The Faculty of Law enrolled its first students in 1971. The Faculty offers two undergraduate degrees: Bachelor of Laws (LLB) and Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris). The LLB degree is designed as a professional degree which will satisfy the academic requirements for admission to practice. It is offered as part of nine undergraduate combined courses involving full-time study, and leading to the award of two degrees. The LLB degree is offered to students who already possess a first degree as a three year full-time course. It is also offered as a part-time course which requires six years’ study. The BJuris degree is not designed to provide a professional qualification and is offered as a separate degree, or as part of the combined Jurisprudence/Law course.

The Law School is situated on the main university campus and seeks to take full advantage of the opportunities this provides for interdisciplinary study. Law is a system of authority and regulation in society, and must respond to social needs and changes. The rapidly changing and highly sophisticated society of the next half century will call for lawyers who are not merely competent but who are broadly educated men and women, ready to adapt to continuing change, sensitive to social issues, and equipped to deal with an increasingly educated public. The Law School seeks to produce graduates who are ready to take up the challenges, not only of an expanding role for the practitioner, but of the many other occupations where the value of a lawyer’s skills is increasingly recognized.

Bachelor of Laws

The Bachelor of Laws degree (whether taken as part of a combined course or separately) is designed to give students a sound knowledge of a number of areas of law that are fundamental to legal work, a broad conception of the legal system as a whole, the experience of working in depth or specializing in a significant number of areas of choice, and an opportunity to develop certain specific legal skills.

These objectives are reflected in the various elements of the course but the real development of the student’s potential as a lawyer depends as much on the learning situation as on what is learnt. The aim is to keep formal lecturing to a minimum, with students learning from the beginning to find the law for themselves. The main purpose of class contact is to develop the students’ capacity to deal with the law after finding it to interpret it, analyse it, criticize it, see the possibilities of distinction and development, relate it to real problems and use it efficiently and creatively. This requires the active participation of students in sufficiently small groups to allow interaction between the minds of student and teacher, and student and student. A class is normally scheduled over a continuous period of two hours.

Subjects taught in the Law Faculty extend over one or two sessions each of 14 weeks; in either case there is usually some form of examination at the end of a session. However, examinations are only one method of assessing students, as other work undertaken during the year is also taken into account.

On the completion of each law subject a student is allotted a specified number of credit points. To obtain the degree each student must complete the designated number of credit points (as detailed below), and also satisfy all other course requirements.

Students who have attended and satisfactorily completed subjects in a Law School at another recognized university may, on application, receive standing for those subjects provided their application falls within the University and Faculty rules on advanced standing. Students already enrolled in the Faculty of Law who wish to interpolate a period of study overseas, and who wish to seek advanced standing for law subjects studied, are required to seek the approval of the Administrative Officer or the Associate Dean before arrangements for entry to the overseas Law School are finalised.

The relevant Rules are set out separately, compulsory and elective subjects are listed in Rule 5, appearing later under Rules for Award of Degrees.

Bachelor of Jurisprudence

The Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris), unlike the LLB degree, is not designed to provide a qualification for the professional practice of law. It provides a basic knowledge of law, an opportunity to study selected legal subjects of special interest, and significant study in other faculties. Various combinations of Law subjects and non-Law subjects are possible and a course may be moulded to meet various vocational ends, eg for industrial officers or advocates, public servants, business executives, law librarians.

Teaching methods in law subjects are the same as in the LLB degree course.

The BJuris degree is available as a pass degree in the Jurisprudence/Law course, which combines the most extensive legal education with the study of subjects in other faculties. It is also available as a separate pass degree course. Requirements for the award of the Bachelor of Jurisprudence degree are listed in Rule 10 of the Rules for the Award of Degrees.

Qualification as a Legal Practitioner

Admission as a legal practitioner in New South Wales is controlled by the Supreme Court of New South Wales and is regulated by Rules of Court. Certificates to practise as a barrister or solicitor are granted by the NSW Bar Association and the Law Society of NSW respectively. Certain information is set out hereunder as background information, but each student desiring to qualify as a legal practitioner should make personal inquiries to the Secretary of the Legal Practitioners Admission Board, Supreme Court, Queens Square, Sydney, telephone 392 0300. The Secretary is in a position to advise authoritatively as to the requirements relative to a particular case, and supply the relevant forms and information.

Under new rules coming into operation students wishing to become legal practitioners must meet certain academic requirements, attend a full-time practical skills course lasting 15 weeks at the College of Law and obtain practical experience. The academic requirements will be satisfied by the possession of the LLB degree of the University. After successful completion of the College of Law course and a period of 24 weeks practical experience, students will be admitted as legal practitioners. To practise as a barrister or solicitor they must also have the appropriate practising certificate, to which conditions will initially be attached.

College of Law

The College of Law was established by the Law Society of New South Wales in 1974 at St Leonards. The College is not an alternative to University education in law, in that it does not offer courses satisfying the academic requirements for admission to practise as a legal practitioner.

The course that it offers is related to actual practice as far as possible and covers basic areas of work encountered in legal practice. Students are grouped into 'firms' and work within up-to-date well-equipped 'offices'. They are provided with a variety of practical experiences in a series of legal situations.

Enquiries regarding the College of Law should be addressed to The Managing Director, The College of Law, PO Box 2, St Leonards, NSW 2065.

ANU Legal Workshop

Each year, a course of professional training for the practice of law is conducted at the Australian National University. The course is a six-month full-time course, conducted by the Legal Workshop of the Faculty of Law. The Workshop charges fees for attendance. Under reciprocal arrangements, graduates of the Legal Workshop will be entitled to be admitted to practise in New South Wales, but they will at first be given only restricted practising certificates in a manner analogous to students completing the course at the College of Law.

Graduates of the University of New South Wales are eligible to apply for admission to courses run by the Workshop.
Course Outlines

Courses Available

The following courses are available:

1. A three-year full-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws; this course is available only to graduates or graduands.

2. A six-year part-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws; this course is only available to graduates and people over 21 who have achieved professional maturity of roughly equivalent nature.

3. A three-year full-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence.

4. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws.

5. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Commerce and Bachelor of Laws.

6. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Economics and Bachelor of Laws.

7. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws.

8. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts (Asian Studies) and Bachelor of Laws.

9. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Science and Bachelor of Laws.

10. A five-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Laws.

11. A six-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Engineering and Bachelor of Laws.

12. A six-year combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Laws.

Students in courses in the Law Faculty who discover they have made a wrong choice of course within the Faculty should consult the Student Administration Manager as soon as possible. It is sometimes possible to effect changes without seriously affecting progress in the new course; the earlier the change can be made the easier the transition.

During 1993 the Faculty made changes to Contracts and introduced a new compulsory subject – Public Law. These changes do not affect students who entered the Law School prior to 1994.

During 1995 the Faculty added LAWS4010 Business Associations 1 to the compulsory core of subjects in order to meet the uniform national admission requirements. This change does not affect students who entered the Law School prior to 1996.

Students commencing Bachelor of Laws degrees in or after 1996 may be required to complete some General Education subjects during their courses. Whatever requirements are determined, they will not affect the first year of the course.

Bachelor of Laws Degree Course (Full-time) for Graduates or Graduands

LLB

This course enables students who have already completed another degree to obtain the Bachelor of Laws degree (the nature of which has been described earlier in this handbook). The main features of the course are as follows:

1. The course is of three years' full-time study leading to the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree.

2. The course is available to graduates or graduands of another faculty of this or another approved university.

3. There are no subject or faculty prerequisites for entry to the course but students must study Law subjects in an approved sequence.

4. The total of credit points required is 375 (240 from compulsory law subjects and 135 from elective law subjects).

An approved sequence of subjects for the course is set out below; other sequences may be approved in special circumstances.

Bachelor of Laws Degree Course
(Part-time)

LLB

The part-time course is only available to graduates and people over 21 who have achieved professional maturity of roughly equivalent nature. The course is not available to people who proceed direct from the Higher School Certificate. The course is a six year part-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws (LLB) and satisfies academic requirements for admission to practice. It involves attendance at the Kensington campus on two afternoons a week from 2 pm during the academic year.

The subjects of the LLB degree course are set out in Rule 5 appearing later under Rules for Award of Degrees. However, it will not be possible to provide the full range of electives at times convenient to part-time students.

The total of credit points required is 375 (240 from compulsory law subjects and 135 from elective law subjects), but see rules 7 (1) (d) and (e). An approved sequence of subjects for the course is set out below; other sequences may be approved in special circumstances.

Bachelor of Jurisprudence Degree Course

BJuris

The Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris) degree course, unlike the LLB degree course, is not designed to provide a qualification for the professional practice of law. It provides a basic knowledge of law, an opportunity to study selected legal subjects of special interest, and significant study in other faculties. Various combinations of Law subjects and non-Law subjects are possible and a course may be moulded to meet various vocational ends, e.g. for industrial officers or advocates, public servants, business executives, law librarians.

Non-Law subjects make up approximately one third of the course.

The main features of the course are as follows:

1. The course is a three year full-time course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence (BJuris).

2. The Law subjects must include LAWS1120 Legal System – Torts, LAWS7410 Legal Research and Writing, LAWS2140 Public Law, LAWS1610 Criminal Law, LAWS2160 Administrative Law, LAWS1420 Contracts, LAWS7420 Advanced Legal Research, LAWS7430 Research Component, and LAWS8320 Legal Theory or LAWS8820 Law and Social Theory.

3. Students are required to obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law for their proposed program of non-Law subjects; the program should provide an integrated pattern of legal and non-legal studies.

4. The non-Law subjects shall include, unless otherwise approved, a major sequence, approved by the faculty offering the major sequence, of three years study.

5. Students must satisfy any subject prerequisites (but not general faculty prerequisites) for subjects studied in other faculties. There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

6. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 225 (135 from compulsory law subjects and 90 from elective law subjects), but see Rule 7 (1) (d) and (e). An approved sequence of subjects for the course is set out below; other sequences may be approved in special circumstances.

Combined Jurisprudence/Law Course

4780 Bachelor of Jurisprudence/Bachelor of Laws
BJuris LLB
This course offers the most extensive legal education. Non-law subjects make up approximately one sixth of the combined course.

The main features of the combined Jurisprudence/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a five year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws (BJuris LLB).

2. The first three years of the course include non-Law subjects together with Law. The degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence may be awarded after successful completion of all subjects and units prescribed for the first three years of the course.

3. Students are required to obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law for their proposed program of non-Law subjects, with an indication of Law electives they intend to study.

4. Students must satisfy any subject prerequisites (but not general faculty prerequisites) for subjects studied in other faculties. There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

5. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.

6. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 465 (240 from compulsory subjects and 225 from elective subjects).

Non Law requirements
The non-Law subjects shall include, unless otherwise approved, a major sequence, approved by the faculty offering the major sequence, of three years study. Another non-law subject is studied for one year.

Combined Commerce/Law and Economics/Law Courses

These courses provide an opportunity to obtain two degrees of professional importance to business, administration and commercial law practice. The Law component is the same as for the combined Arts/Law course, although the overall course is probably somewhat heavier, particularly in Year 3.

In Commerce the student may choose one of the five specializations Accounting, Finance, Information Systems, Industrial Relations or Marketing.

The main features of the combined Commerce/Law and Economics/Law courses are as follows:

1. The courses are of five years' fulltime study leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Commerce (Accounting, Finance, Information Systems, Industrial Relations or Marketing) and Bachelor of Laws or Bachelor of Economics and Bachelor of Laws (BCom LLB or BEc LLB).

2. The student must elect to take one of the six courses at the beginning of Year 1. Changes from one Commerce course or the Economics course to another before the beginning of Year 2 may be arranged; enquiries should be made in the first instance to the Manager, Student Administration, Faculty of Law.

3. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Commerce and Economics Faculty and to individual subjects in that Faculty. There are no general Faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

4. The requirements relating to Honours in the BCom and BEc degree courses are noted at the end of Year 3 of the program for each specialization. Students ordinarily will interpolate an honours year between Years 3 and 4 of the combined course.

5. Students enrolling from 1995 will be able to graduate from the Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Economics after the completion of the first three years of the prescribed combined Law course*. Students enrolled prior to 1995 may, under certain circumstances be awarded the Bachelor of Commerce or Bachelor of Economics before the completion of the full five year program, but in any event, not before the successful completion of the first three years of the combined course. Full details of these conditions may be obtained from the Faculty of Commerce and Economics Students Centre or the Commerce and Economics Handbooks prior to 1995. Any student who fails to complete the full combined course may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Commerce and Economics.

6. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.

7. Apart from service subjects for other faculties, and unless specified as from which discipline they must be chosen, Commerce and Economics options may be chosen from any offered by the Faculty of Commerce and Economics. No subject can be counted both as an option and as a prescribed subject.

8. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 405 (240 from compulsory subjects and 165 from elective subjects). An approved sequence of subjects for each course is set out in the following examples; other sequences may be approved in special circumstances.

*Subject to final approval of course transfer and satisfaction of General Education requirements.

Combined Arts/Law Course

4760
Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Laws

BA LLB

This course gives students the maximum freedom to follow their interests in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. The Law subjects, while fewer in number than in the Jurisprudence/Law course, satisfy the requirements for the award of the professional LLB degree.

The main features of the combined Arts/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a five year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws (BA LLB).

2. The first three years of the course include (1) Law subjects totalling at least 160 Law credit points and (2) studies in at least three schools or programs offering Arts subjects, to the value of 195 Arts credit points or more, of which at least 105 must be obtained by the completion of an approved major sequence in a school or program within the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, and at least 30 must be Upper Level credit points obtained in other schools or programs. For details of approved major sequences, see Undergraduate Study: How to Structure your Degree Program (1. Bachelor of Arts) in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Handbook. Where an Arts/Law student completes a Law subject offered to both Arts and Law students the subject is counted as a Law subject.

3. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Arts and Social Sciences Faculty, and to individual subjects in that Faculty. There are no general Faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

4. A student wishing to take the BA degree course at Honours level is required to assume a heavier workload than that required for the study of the BA degree course at Pass level, and approval for his or her program must be obtained from the relevant Arts school and the Head of the School of Law. At least one and possibly two additional years of study are required. Alternatively a student may consider first completing the BA degree course at Honours level (4 years) and then seek admission to the three year LLB degree course for graduates.

5. A student who does not wish to proceed to the combined degree BA LLB, may apply to transfer to the BA program with credit for all subjects completed.

6. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.

7. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 405 (240 from compulsory subjects and 165 from elective subjects).

A typical combined Arts/Law course is set out below. For complete details of Arts subjects students must consult the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Handbook.

The main features of the combined Social Science/Law course are as follows:
1. The course is of five years full-time study leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Social Science and Bachelor of Laws (BSocSc LLB).
2. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Arts and Social Sciences Faculty, and to individual subjects in that Faculty. There are no general Faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.
3. The first three years of the course include:
   (1) Law subjects totalling at least 160 Law credit points;
   (2) the Bachelor of Social Science core program totalling 120 Social Science credit points; and (3) an approved major sequence in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences of at least 90 Arts credit points (some schools require more than 90 credit points). The major sequence must be taken in one of the following schools: Computer Science, Economics, Geography, History, Human Resource Management, Industrial Relations and Organizational Behaviour, Mathematics, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Science and Technology Studies, Sociology, Spanish and Latin American Studies (History).
4. A student who does not wish to proceed to the combined degree BSocSc LLB, may transfer to the BSocSc degree program with credit for all subjects completed.
5. The whole of the final two years of the course, as well as part of the first three years, consists of Law subjects.
6. A student wishing to take the BSocSc degree course at Honours level should consult with the Co-ordinator of the BSocSc degree course before commencing the 4th year of the combined program.

The structure of the combined Social Science/Law course is set out below. For complete details of Social Science and Arts subjects students must consult the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences Handbook.

7. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 405 (240 from compulsory subjects and 165 from elective subjects).

Combined Science/Law Course

Bachelor of Science/Bachelor of Laws

BSc LLB

This course gives the students the maximum freedom to follow their interests in the subjects controlled by the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics. The Law component is the same as for the combined Arts/Law course although the overall course is probably somewhat heavier, particularly in Years 2 and 3.

The main features of the combined Science/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a five year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Laws (BSc LLB).

2. The first three years of the course include at least 270 credit points in the Science course together with Law subjects totaling at least 160 credit points.

3. The 270 Science course credit points must include a minimum of 90 and a maximum of 120 level 1 credit points. All subjects prescribed in a specific program as outlined in the Science Handbook must be completed.

4. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics and to individual subjects there.

There are no general faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

5. Students desiring to enrol in the BSc degree course at Honours level are not able to complete the course in five years and must obtain approval from the Faculty of Law and the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics for their programs. With the approval of the relevant school and of the Head of the School of Law, a student may follow a standard Honours program in the Science course which can be completed by an additional year of study. Alternatively the student may consider first completing a BSc degree course at Honours level (4 years) and then seek admission to the three year LLB degree course for graduates.

6. The degree of Bachelor of Science is not awarded until the completion of the full five year program, but any student who fails to complete the full program may apply for advanced standing in the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics.

7. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 405 (240 from compulsory subjects and 165 from elective subjects).

Students contemplating enrolling in this course should consult fully with the Board of Studies in Science and Mathematics and with the School of Law before enrolment.

A typical structure of a combined Science/Law course is set out below. Subject to timetable restrictions, the full range of Science programs is available to Law students.

Year 1
Level I Science subjects to total 90 credit points
LAWS1120 Legal System – Torts
LAWS7410 Legal Research and Writing

Year 2

5. The degree Bachelor of engineering may be conferred as a Pass degree or as an Honours degree. There are two classes of Honours, Class I, and Class II in two divisions. The award and grade of Honours are made in recognition of superior performance throughout the course with greater weighting on subjects in the later years.

6. 15 credit points (56 hours) of General Education will satisfy the course General Education requirements.

7. There will be a testamur for each degree in the combined course.

Combined Engineering/Law Course

This course will provide students with professional qualifications in areas of very great importance to the community. The course will prove attractive to students who have in mind a career involving constructive developments. Most large construction projects raise a formidable range of legal issues, and there appears to be a need for highly qualified personnel who are able to understand both the engineering and the legal dimensions of such projects, both in Australia and overseas.

1. The course is a six year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Engineering and Bachelor of Laws (BE LLB).

2. Students must satisfy the normal prerequisites for entry to the Faculty of Engineering and to individual subjects in that Faculty. Students must study Civil Engineering subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Engineering. There are no general Faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

3. The total of credit points required in law subjects is 405 (240 from compulsory subjects and 165 from elective subjects).

4. The combined Civil Engineering/Law course is set out below.

This course is administered by the Faculty of Law and candidates enrol through the Faculty of Law. Further information can be obtained from the Faculty of Law Handbook.

Graduates will be equipped with the knowledge and skills to work in a variety of emerging areas which require an understanding of the law, social work theory and practice and a commitment to social justice. Such areas include consumer protection, tenancy obligations and entitlements, land rights, child custody and family property disputes, social security and welfare rights.

The main features of the combined Social Work/Law course are as follows:

1. The course is a six-year full-time combined course leading to the award of the two degrees of Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Laws (BSW LLB).

2. There are no general course prerequisites for the Social Work course but students must study Social Work subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Professional Studies.

There are no general Faculty prerequisites to courses offered by the Faculty of Law but students must study Law subjects in a sequence approved by the Faculty of Law.

3. The degree of Bachelor of Social Work is not awarded until the completion of the full six-year program, but any student who fails to complete the full program may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Professional Studies Social Work degree course. Alternatively a student may apply for advanced standing in the Faculty of Law Jurisprudence degree course.

Combined Social Work/Law Course

BSW LLB

This unique and challenging six-year full-time course qualifies students for the professional practice of both social work and law. In the first four years, core social work and legal subjects are combined, while in the final two years students are able to choose from a wide range of specialised electives in both professional disciplines. The final social work field placement is undertaken in a legal setting.

A guide to abbreviations and prefixes is included in the chapter 'Handbook Guide', appearing earlier in this book.

Compulsory Subjects

LAWS1010
Litigation
Staff Contact: A/Prof Jill Hunter
CP30 F HPW4
Introduces students to issues and problems in three areas:

- Civil pre-trial procedure: focuses on selected topics largely in the context of Supreme Court – actions parties to an action; pleadings; discovery and exchange of information. Supreme Court Rules are examined to determine the extent to which they facilitate just, accurate and speedy resolution of disputes. Problems of delay and cost are also addressed with particular reference to case-flow management techniques and alternative dispute resolution.
- Criminal pre-trial procedure: the law and related issues associated with arrest, warrants, police searches, interrogation and the formulation of pleadings. Comparisons are drawn between the civil and criminal pre-trial processes.
- Evidence: a basic understanding of the legal and philosophical principles relating to the presentation of evidence in court. The Evidence Acts 1995 (Cth) and (NSW) form the basis of the course. A comprehensive examination of the rules of evidence, including those designed to protect the accused at trial; the rule against hearsay evidence; the use of expert evidence; the treatment of unreliable evidence; proof and probability theory and questioning of witnesses in court.

The effect of pretrial procedures on the final outcome at trial highlighted.

LAWS1120
Legal System – Torts
Staff Contact: Mr Angus Corbett/Ms Prue Vines
CP30 F HPW4

The legal significance of the arrival of the British in Australia; the principal institutions of the legal system, particularly the courts, the legislature, and the executive arms of government; the judiciary; the legal profession; their history, roles, interrelationships, operation and techniques; general constitutional principles and institutions; the notion and consequences of federalism; Bill of Rights proposals; precedent and statutory interpretation, practice and theory; sources of Australian law, including the past and present status of Aboriginal customary law; origins of the common law; classifications within the common law; jurisdiction of Australian courts.

A number of torts, both intentional and unintentional, relating to economic interests as well as personal injury. The primary focus of the course is a thorough and comprehensive introduction to the tort of negligence. There is a detailed discussion of specific issues such as recovery for personal injury, for nervous shock, for pure economic loss as well as affirmative duties of care. In addition there is an introduction to the law relating to limitation periods, vicarious liability, defences to the tort of negligence and the law relating to the assessment of damages. The approach to teaching this material is via extensive discussion of a relatively limited number of leading cases. Students are thus able to build up an understanding of this body of law through their own analysis of case law and statute law.

A second strand of this course is to introduce students to the wide ranging debates about the appropriate role and function of tort law. This requires developing a working knowledge of a feminist and economic analysis of tort law and of the various corrective justice theories of tort. In developing this working knowledge students will be exposed to secondary materials which build upon and refer to the cases and statutes which are included in the course.

LAWS1420
Contracts
Staff Contact: Mr Denis Harley
CP22.5 F HPW S1 2, S2 4
Note/s: Taken concurrently with LAWS2140 as a composite subject

This course examines the nature of contractual obligations and how parties make and break contracts. Topics include: how contracts are formed and the necessary elements of a validly constituted contract; express and implied terms of a contract and how such terms are imported into the contract; how courts interpret the terms of a contract; the consequences where a contract is induced by misrepresentation, mistake or unconscionability; exemption clauses; estoppel and contract; contracts which are illegal under statute or contrary to public policy; remedies for breach of contract and the damages payable for such breach.

Students are encouraged to examine the role of contract law from an historical and contemporary standpoint.

LAWS1610
Criminal Law
Staff Contact: Prof David Brown
CP30 F HPW4

The principles of criminal law and criminal liability. Aims to: promote and refine research and social policy analysis skills; develop a rigorous analytic and socially oriented approach to the study of criminal law; investigate the conclusion of concepts like crime, criminal and criminal law; question traditional approaches which assume a unified set of general principles; suggest an approach to criminal law as a number of diverse fields of regulation; acknowledge the importance of forms of regulation outside the criminal law; examine empirical material on the actual operation of the N.S.W. criminal process such as court statistics and a court observation exercise; examine the substantive rules developed in selected criminal offence areas; stress the importance and relevance of criminal law in an understanding of law, even (and especially) for those who do not intend to practise in the area. Topics include: the phenomenon of crime, the criminal process, criminal responsibility, homicide offences, public order offences, drug offences, offences against the person, offences of dishonest acquisition, general defences, complicity, conspiracy, sentencing and penal practices.

LAWS2140
Public Law
Staff Contact: Mr Robert Shetty
CP7.5 S1 HPW2
Note/s: Taken concurrently with LAWS1420 as a composite subject

This course introduces the students to the concept of 'public law', its methods of reasoning, history and fundamental principles. It deals with the fundamental principles of constitutional and administrative law, with the ethical precepts underlying our constitutional system; with the essential features of our system of government, and with the increasing role of public international law. The course also introduces students to comparative law, especially the public law assumptions of the Civil Law system. Topics include the concept of public law; theories and history of constitutionalism; comparative methods of enforcing constitutional precepts; Australia's constitutional development; the separation of powers, responsible government and constitutional conventions; and the republicanism debate.

LAWS2150
Federal Constitutional Law
Staff Contact: Prof George Winterton / Dr Keven Booker
CP15 S1 or S2 HPW4

Federal constitutional law, stressing the legislative and judicial powers of the Commonwealth and the judicial interpretation by the High Court of the extent of those powers, in particular: trade and commerce, external affairs, corporations, appropriation, grants and taxation powers, inconsistency of Commonwealth and State laws, freedom of interstate trade and commerce, excise and implied limitations on Commonwealth and State powers, including implied rights. Techniques and approaches adopted by the High Court in interpreting the Australian Constitution.

Further study of constitutional law may be undertaken in LAWS2100 The High Court of Australia.

LAWS2160
Administrative Law
Staff Contact: Ms Melinda Jones
CP15 S1 or S2 HPW4

This course considers the law concerning the accountability and control of government officials. Topics covered include: the regulation of delegated legislation; the problem of corruption; the duty to give reasons for administration decisions; freedom of information, the Ombudsman, the Administrative Appeals Tribunal; and judicial review of administrative action (the principles of legality and procedural fairness).

LAWS3010
Property and Equity
Staff Contact: A/Prof Chris Rossiter
CP30 F HPW4

The basic principles of the law of property, transcending the traditional boundaries of real and personal property. For reasons of time and convenience, most topics are those usually considered in the context of 'real property'.

Enquiry into the meaning of the concepts of property and the purposes that are or ought to be fulfilled by the law of property. Some of the traditional concepts and classifications adopted by the common law in the content of the study of fixtures. Topics: possession as a proprietary interest in land and goods; some basic concepts such as seisin and title; the fragmentation of proprietary interests, including the doctrines of tenure and estates; an introduction to future interests; the development of legal and equitable interests, including a comparative treatment of their nature, extent and sphere of enforceability and an introduction to trusts; legal and equitable remedies; the statutory regulation of proprietary interests in land, including an examination of the Torrens and deeds registration systems: co-ownership; an introduction to security interests; the acquisition of proprietary interests; the alienability of interests including trusts for sale: commercial transactions involving leasehold estates in land and bailment of goods.

LAWS4010
Business Associations 1
Staff Contact: Mr Angus Corbett
CP15 SS HPW4

An introduction to a number of important legal and theoretical aspects of the operation of business corporations. In addition, there is a brief overview of partnership law.

The corporate law component of the subject falls into two parts. The first deals with the process and incidents of incorporation, including the derivation of the modern corporation and an introduction to regulatory structures; an introduction to the corporate constitution, organs and capital; the separate personality of the corporation and its exceptions.

The balance of the subject is concerned with the structure and governance of the corporation. It examines the corporate organs (the board of directors and the general meeting) and the division of corporate powers between them; the duties and liabilities of directors and other officers; the remedies available to shareholders for the enforcement of directors' duties and protection against oppression or overreaching by controllers.

While much of this legal doctrine is equally applicable to the large corporation as to the small enterprise, the subject stresses the problems, processes and transactions typically encountered by small incorporated businesses.

LAWS6210

Law, Lawyers and Society
Staff Contact: Dr Stan Ross
CP15 S1 or S2 HPW4

1. The lawyer/client relationship, including who exercises control and the lawyers' duties to accept work, to keep client confidences, to act competently and to avoid conflicts of interest; the social implications of lawyers' professional behaviour. 2. The adversary system of litigation and the lawyers' role therein, both generally and specifically as defence counsel and as prosecutor in criminal cases. 3. The structure of the profession and methods of regulation including discussion of the concept of professionalism, control of admission, discipline generally and conducting court specifically; selection and control of the judiciary. 4. Issues relating to the delivery of legal services, including specialization in lawyers' practice, the structure and availability of legal aid, the regulation of lawyers' fees, the extent of the lawyers' monopoly and the role of non-lawyers in delivering legal services.

LAWS7410

Legal Research and Writing
Staff Contact: Ms Irene Nemes
CP10 S1 HPW2

The literature, both legal and non-legal, relevant to the law in Australia. The contents of a law library, how it works and is ordered and how lawyers go about using it to find the law. Practice in handling the principal legal materials in the law library, notably law reports, collections of statutes, bibliographies, periodical indexes, digests and material on law reform. An introduction to case analysis and statutes. Principles of legal writing, including plain English, citation practice, word processing and logical argument. An introduction to the use of computerized legal research methods. The methods and objectives of legal and empirical research.

LAWS7420

Advanced Legal Research
Staff Contact: Ms Irene Nemes
CP5 S2 HPW2

A revision and expansion of legal research skills acquired in LAWS7410 Legal Research and Writing, particularly the use of Australian digests, law reform materials, loose-leaf services and legal encyclopaedias. Practice in finding and updating the law on a topic. Foreign Legal systems and International law. Further instruction on the use of computers for retrieval of legal materials.

LAWS7430

Research Component
Staff Contact: Faculty Office
Note/s: Taken with or after LAWS7420 Advanced Legal Research

Research skills are an essential and integral part of legal practice. There are many opportunities within the courses offered by the Faculty to develop these skills — formally (Legal Research and Writing and Advanced Legal Research) and informally (research projects incorporated in the assessment of various subjects). However, to ensure that all students are capable of demonstrating, by application to an actual research project, a thorough knowledge of the research resources, materials and techniques the Faculty has resolved that every student must satisfactorily complete a research essay that is worth 30% or more of the subject requirements in at least one elective subject. This resolution is satisfied by the compulsory subject Research Component.

All elective subjects offered in the Law School are prima facie available to Research Component students for this purpose. However, an elective subject will only qualify for this purpose if it requires a piece of assessable work which constitutes no less than 30% of the total mark. Students must submit a Research Component Form to one of the Student Services Officers by the end of Week 4 in the Session in which they elect to undertake Research Component. This form must identify the elective subject in which the student is currently enrolled and in which the work for Research Component will be satisfied. The assessment of Research Component, on a pass/fail basis, will be based on the satisfactory completion of the nominated piece of assessment. Although there is no formal teaching in Research Component and no credit points are awarded for it, all students must demonstrate that they have satisfactorily completed the subject before they can be cleared for graduation. For further details students should ask for the Information Sheet available at the Faculty Office.

LAWS8320

Legal Theory
Staff Contact: Prof Martin Kryger
CP15 S1 or S2 HPW4

Introduction to philosophical questions which underline the practical workings of the law. The course concentrates on questions to do with legal reasoning, particularly the reasoning of judges, and of moral reasoning; and the interrelationships between law and morals and law and politics.

CP15 S1 or S2 HPW4

Examination of sociological assumptions about law, about society, and about the relationships between law, legal institutions and social ordering. Topics include: The role and functions of law within modern society, the extent to which law embodies implicit social theories and the nature of these theories, and the implications of social research on our understanding of the place of law in society.

LAWS8320 and LAWS8820 form part of the compulsory core of the LLB and BJuris degree courses with respect to students who entered the Faculty in 1981 or later. Students are required to take one of these two subjects to fulfil compulsory requirements and are permitted to take the other as an elective.

Electives*

Prerequisites for Elective Subjects

The Faculty has decided not to impose an elaborate set of subject prerequisites and corequisites. The Faculty in effect prefers to maintain a flexible attitude toward admission to particular subjects and to the variety of pre-law study backgrounds of its many students.

As the elective program is of its nature an advanced stage of the various courses, teachers plan their subjects and their teaching and assessment strategies on the general assumption that students entering any particular elective have completed LAWS1120 Legal System – Torts, LAWS7410 Legal Research and Writing, LAWS1610 Criminal Law, LAWS1410 Contracts, LAWS2160 Administrative Law and LAWS3010 Property and Equity.

Elective subjects for which specific prerequisites or corequisites have been set are:

LAWS1020
Trial Process
Prerequisite: LAWS 1010 Litigation

LAWS1040
Evidence and Advocacy
Prerequisites: LAWS1010 Litigation, LAWS6210 Law, Lawyers and Society

LAWS1050
Dispute Resolution
Prerequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation

LAWS1480
Advanced Criminal Law
Prerequisite: LAWS1610 Criminal Law
Corequisite: LAWS 1010 Litigation

LAWS2700
The Law, Procedures and Practice of Parliament
Prerequisite: LAWS 2150 Federal Constitutional Law

LAWS3050
Succession
Prerequisite: LAWS3010 Property and Equity

LAWS4020
Business Associations 2
Prerequisite: LAWS4010 Business Associations 1

LAWS4240
Industrial and Intellectual Property
Prerequisite: LAWS3010 Property and Equity

LAWS4450
Advanced Revenue Law
Prerequisite: LAWS4440 Elements of Income Tax Law

LAWS7200
Clinical Legal Experience (Intensive)
Co/Prerequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation, LAWS6210 Law, Lawyers and Society

LAWS7210
Clinical Legal Experience
Co/Prerequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation, LAWS6210 Law, Lawyers and Society

LAWS8470
Law and Politics in Post-Mao China
Prerequisite: LAWS8460 Legal institutions in Post-Mao China or equivalent.

Students in any doubt about their preparedness for any particular elective subject should be certain to speak to the Associate Dean well in advance of seeking enrolment in that subject.

* Students should note that it may not be possible to offer all electives as listed. Up-to-date information is contained in re-enrolment details issued to each student at the end of each year and in timetables published several weeks before the next academic year. The number of students who can be taken into any elective depends on the number of teachers available.

Elective Subjects

LAWS1020
Trial Process
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation

An advocacy training course concerned with the procedural and practical aspects of trial litigation and focusing on the role of the lawyer. Preparation of cases for trial, from initial investigation to final submission. Major emphasis is given to developing skills of interviewing, collecting facts, examining and cross-examining witnesses, and addressing judges.

Begins with a series of practice exercises simulating real life litigation problems and students initially play all the courtroom roles: lawyer, witness, orderly and judge. Concludes with a series of mock trials derived from actual cases and presided over by judges and barristers. The course is based upon the conduct of civil trials.
LAWS1030
Remedies
Staff Contact: Ms Anne Cossins
CP15 SS HPW4
A study of the principal private law remedies evolved by the common law and by equity through an examination of relevant historical, economic and political perspectives. The course analyses the nominate remedies of Australian law by reference to the remedial goals of the legal system, namely compensation, restitution, punishment and coercion. The relationship between the various remedies is also explored, as are the ways in which remedies are enforced in practice.

LAWS1040
Evidence and Advocacy
Staff Contact: A/Prof Jill Hunter, Dr Kathryn Cronin
CP15 SS HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation, LAWS6210 Law, Lawyers and Society
This course is designed to follow and expand upon the compulsory Litigation course. Students are therefore expected to know the fundamentals of evidence and trial procedure.

Evidence and Advocacy concentrates on the criminal trial and is designed to allow a hands-on approach to learning evidence law and developing expertise in trial practice and procedure. The course is not a replacement for the Trial Process course.

The advocacy component will involve students preparing cases for trial. This work will be undertaken in groups both in and out of class. Effectively, students will be learning what US advocacy writers term, 'case theory'. This is the pre-trial preparation of examination-in-chief, cross-examination, opening and closing addresses for particular trial scenarios.

The evidence component concentrates on the participants in the criminal trial; the judge, jury, accused, witnesses and lawyers. The roles of these participants are examined from a multidisciplinary perspective, incorporating the observations of historians, psychologists, sociologists and linguists. The course assumes a fundamental knowledge of evidence law based on the Evidence Act 1995 (NSW).

Classes: two 2 hour classes per week involving trial exercises and class discussion based on readings from the course text, Hunter, Cronin, Evidence, Advocacy & Ethical Practice: A Criminal Trial Commentary (1995).
Assessment: Students undertake a mid-session assignment. All students will be required to complete certain trial exercises.

LAWS1050
Dispute Resolution
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation
Most legal education in common law systems revolves around the interpretation and development of the law by decisions made by courts in the process of litigation. In doing so it tends to foster the assumption that litigation, or legal advice predicting the outcome of litigation, is the normal method of resolving disputes, and both substantive and skills training is largely geared to this assumption. In fact only a small proportion of disputes are resolved by litigation and there is a growing dissatisfaction with the costs, slowness and adversarial character of litigation, and a corresponding interest in alternative forms of dispute resolution. The courts themselves are introducing court annexed mediation. This course will critically examine the growth of alternative methods, analyse their comparative advantages and disadvantages, introduce students to the skills involved (particularly in negotiation and mediation) and examine the implications for the future of the law and of legal practice and for individual and social justice.

LAWS1440
Advanced Contract Law
Staff Contact: Mr Denis Harley
CP15 SS HPW4
This subject covers some significant topics of the law of contract which are omitted from the initial contract law subjects, LAWS1420 Contract (eg illegality; agency). It also deals in more depth with certain other topics which are very important in commercial practice, but are dealt with only briefly in LAWS1420 Contract (eg uncertainty and incompleteness in contract formation; economic duress; termination for breach and frustration; privity and third party rights, interpretation). The subject also examines the increasing impact of equitable principles, and of the law of restitution, on the common law of contract. There is likely also to be an examination of some leading theories on the nature and likely development of contract law.

LAWS1450
Advanced Studies in Torts
Staff Contact: Mr Angus Corbett
CP15 SS HPW4
A consideration of the application of the tort of negligence, and of a range of other torts, to particular conduct and activities such as professional liability and products liability. Through this analysis a detailed consideration of specific legal issues such as recovery for personal injury, nervous shock, pure economic loss, wrongful birth, and affirmative duties to rescue. In addressing these issues there is specific treatment of the relationship between the law of tort and other areas of law such as contracts, administrative law and various statutes such as the Trade Practices Act. The tort of defamation is not covered in this course.

A second strand of the courses traverses the various debates about the function and role of the law of tort in general and of the tort of negligence in particular. This involves attention to economic analysis of tort, general theories which propose the use of tort law to achieve regulatory goals, feminist critiques of and various corrective justice approaches to tort law. In this section there is extensive discussion of statutory reform of tort law.
LAWS1480
Advanced Criminal Law
Staff Contact: A/Prof George Zdenkowski
CP15 SS HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS1610 Criminal Law
Corequisite: LAWS1010 Litigation
Builds upon the introduction to criminal law and process in the compulsory core curriculum. Examines such matters as: Criminal law and the constitutions; Commonwealth Criminal law; common law and code jurisdictions; managing complex criminal trials; crime and the environment; confiscating the proceeds of crime; criminal law and corporations; women and crime; crime and racial vilification; crime and human rights; privatisation of criminal justice; codification; reform. Topics may vary from year to year.

LAWS1510
Family Law
Staff Contact: A/Prof Owen Jessep
CP15 SS HPW4
This subject examines the constitutional framework of family law; marriage and divorce; the legal recognition and regulation of different types of domestic relationships and 'families', including de facto and gay and lesbian relationships; the resolution of disputes between married and unmarried domestic partners relating to care and custody of children, personal protection, property and maintenance; child support; legal status of children (including legal issues arising from artificial insemination and current techniques of assisted reproduction and family planning), and the rights and responsibilities of parents and others relating to children; adoption of children; and procedural aspects of family law, including the roles of lawyers and court counsellors.

LAWS1550
Feminist Legal Theory
Staff Contact: Staff Office
CP15 SS HPW4
Examines the complex role played by legal rules and practices in the construction and maintenance of inequality between women and men. Introduces students to feminist jurisprudence and significant debates within it, including the multiple meanings of 'equality' (for example, the sameness/difference debate and critiques of it); the public/private dichotomy; and the ways in which 'black letter' law is gendered. In addition to the broad theoretical material, topics covered may include the three-part system by which women have access to financial support: viz, paid work, dependence on men, and dependence on the state; injuries to women and the ways in which women are distinctively harmed; the legal construction and regulation of women's connection with others: as wives, mothers etc; strategies for change (is the practice of law, in particular the adversary system, the only alternative for dealing with disputes; would gender neutral legal language change a gender-specific world?).

LAWS1630
Children and the Law
Staff Contact: Ms Jennifer Bargen
CP15 SS HPW4
The subject is intended both for students who are interested in legal practice relating to children, and those who wish to broaden their understanding of the legal system by a critical examination of how it operates in a controversial and rapidly changing area.

The present law in New South Wales is considered as well as the historical development of laws relating to children, proposed reforms, and comparative material from other jurisdictions. The materials draw on disciplines other than law (such as sociology, child development theory) so that legal developments can be related to the position of children in society and different perspectives on their rights and interests.

There may be some variation in the topics to be covered, according to the interests of the particular teacher and students, but in general the subject deals with the concept of children's rights; child welfare laws; the application of the criminal law to children and the jurisdiction and procedures in children's courts; education; foster care, and other forms of alternative care.

It is desirable that students have completed LAWS1510 Family Law.

LAWS1720
Crime and Society
Staff Contact: Mr Dirk Meure
CP15 SS HPW4
Some of the issues arising from the relationship of crime to society. Crime as a dividing practice in the construction of normality. A critical history of traditional and current accounts of crime and delinquency. The subject is sourced from a variety of literatures. Topics include: the dramatisation of evil and the politics of social control; a genealogy of delinquency and its psychological and sociological explanations; theories of conformity and alienation; crime and discipline: women, crime and power.

LAWS1730
The Criminal Justice System
Staff Contact: Prof David Brown
CP15 SS HPW4
The operation and main institutions of the criminal justice system. The materials are socio-legal in orientation; with an increasing emphasis on popular cultural sources; they emphasise process rather than legal rules. Historical and contemporary issues are examined within their broader political and discursive context. In examining various forms of discretionary decision-making in the criminal process an attempt is made to identify practices specific to class, race and gender. Topics covered from year to year vary according to current inquiries, campaigns and controversies.

Topics: reporting crime, criminal statistics, media approaches to crime, popular cultural perspectives, crime fiction, cop shows, fictional presentations of particular cases, serial killers, the death penalty, contemporary developments in social control, criminal violence, miscarriages of justice, and reform in the criminal justice system.

LAWS1740
Penology
Staff Contact: A/Prof George Zdenkowski
CP15 SS HPW4

A critical interdisciplinary subject involving historical, sociological, political and legal materials. Topics include: prisoners and the prison movement; discipline and punishment; community corrections; media issues; the legal process of punishment; truth in sentencing; privatisation of prisons; reform. The emphasis on different topics may vary from year to year.

LAWS1810
Health and Medical Law
Staff Contact: Staff Office
CP15 SS HPW4

Health and Medical Law is a relatively new discipline in Australia. It does not have a unified body of doctrine. It cuts across several different areas of law, which have been applied or adapted to specific medical situations. The major areas of law applied are tort, contract and criminal law, with substantial modifications through statute. It is also an area where history, politics, economics, ethics and philosophy have played a major role. Law is just one of the forces which has shaped the way that health services are provided in Australia.

The course aims to give seminar participants a good grounding in the major black letter law and ethical topics while encouraging an awareness of the important policy considerations that shape law and ethics. We examine how appropriate and effective the law's impact on medicine is and the nature of alternative laws.

Topics covered include negligence, death and dying, confidentiality and access to medical records, transplants and donations, abortion, HIV, genetic manipulation, mental health, professional regulation and other methods of accountability. Assessment is a maximisable combination of class participation, research project and take home or sit down exam.

LAWS2100
The High Court of Australia
Staff Contact: Prof George Winterton / Mr Kevon Booker
CP15 SS HPW4

The role of the High Court of Australia as a legal, political and social institution in the framework of Australian government. Topics include: the relationship of the High Court to other institutions of government; the relationship of the Court to other courts within the judicial system; the historical development of the Court and its distinctive features through different periods of that development; the Court's composition and internal working; its style of legal reasoning; its contribution to the development of distinctively Australian law in selected areas and the place of its individual members in the Australian judicial tradition. The subject is divided broadly into four parts. 1. The structure and operation of the Court; 2. the Court's role and record in public law; 3. the Court's role and record in private law; and 4. an analysis, building on the earlier part, of issues relating to the judicial process in the Court. About half of the subject is based on discussion of prepared materials, and the other half on research essays by each student presented to the class in the style of a seminar.

LAWS2210
Advanced Administrative Law
Staff Contact: Prof Mark Aronson
CP15 SS HPW4

Builds upon the administrative law topics covered in the compulsory part of the curriculum. Content varies from year to year because of the need to deal with contemporary problems, and a corpus of law which is ever more subject to reform both by legislation and by judicial decisionmaking. In some areas a comparative approach is taken to expose the many solutions possible in the search for administrative justice. The focus of the subject is concerned with issues of regulatory design, and with the administrative law consequences of deregulation, outsourcing, corporatisation and privatisation. Other topics included are judicial and tribunal review of administrative action, freedom of information; contracts and torts of the Crown, and other public authorities; ombudsmen; delegated legislation; and public corporations.

LAWS2230
Communications Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4

An examination of the tension between the democratic right to communicate freely, and the regulation and control of communications by the Courts and Parliaments. The course is in two parts. The first half covers such topics as: freedom of speech, defamation, contempt, privacy, censorship and the rights and responsibilities of journalists. These subjects are examined in the context of traditional media, and the rapidly expanding new electronic media. The second half of the course concentrates on the regulation of Australia's broadcasting and telecommunications industries. Particular attention is paid to the law as it affects the Internet, and like new technologies.

LAWS2240
Mining Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4

The framework of regulation for mining in Australia and the possible legal structures that might be used in establishing a natural resources project. The legal questions that arise in the financing of such a project. The subject focuses on New South Wales which, like other States, has extensive legislation relating to the mining industry. This entails, however, substantial treatment of federal regulation in the areas of foreign investment, export control, exchange control, Aborigines, uranium and offshore exploration and mining. Constitutional problems arising from the Federal/State relationship. The revenue, environmental and international trade aspects of minerals projects in Australia. Policy questions raised by these matters.

LAWS2420
Local Government Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4

Local government as a particular example of the role of government in general in providing public goods; policy questions such as the optimal size of local jurisdictions in terms of efficiency and political responsibility, and legal and administrative comparisons with specialist statutory authorities such as county councils and central government departments and corporations; the law governing formal structure of local authorities, elections, servants, meetings, control of corruption; the range of council powers and duties in providing local public goods and the rules which govern their provision by compulsory acquisition, revenue raising by rating (including land valuation), and the management of public property, introduction to councils' role in land use and environmental control through subdivision, zoning, building and public health regulation and the licensing system in this area; aspects of remedial law special to local government, actions by and against councils, with some emphasis on council liability in tort.

LAWS2620
Human Rights Law
Staff Contact: Prof Garth Nettheim
CP15 SS HPW4

Study of the measures developed for the protection of human rights in international law, of the ways in which these standards and processes are operated, and of their influence on Australian law and government.

Topics include: the development of the international system; the human rights provisions in the UN Charter; the Universal Declaration of Human Rights; the International Covenants on Civil and Political Rights, and on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights; other international human rights instruments; regional arrangements for protection of human rights; the cultural relativism debate; the influence of international standards on Australian law and government; human rights and foreign policy; the treaty based system; the Charter based system; human rights and development; self-determination, proposals to strengthen the international system.

LAWS2630
Disability, Rights and the Law
Staff Contact: Ms Melinda Jones
CP15 SS HPW2

Real concerns have arisen in recent years about the rights of people with disabilities. This has resulted in the enactment of the Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (Cth) and in a number of legislative reforms at State level including the Guardianship Act 1987 (NSW) and amendments to the Anti-Discrimination Act 1977 (NSW). In order to understand these developments, this subject examines the legislation in the light of the historical treatment of disability, both physical and intellectual, and critically evaluates the social construction of disability and the ensuing policies and practices. A variety of models explaining disability will be discussed and evaluated. The theoretical and legal context for disabilities will then be tested by an examination of a number of case studies. These may include case studies on integration in education, sexuality, medical treatment, employment and treatment in the criminal justice system. Finally, the role of law and social policy in facilitating change for people with disabilities will be considered.

LAWS2700
The Law, Procedures and Practice of Parliament
Staff Contact: Prof Adrian Brooks
CP15 SS HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS2150 Federal Constitutional Law

An examination of the Australian parliamentary systems, State and Federal, and of the Acts, Regulations, Standing Orders, practices and conventions which govern: candidacy for parliament; parliamentary elections; the organization of parliamentary business; the legislative process; parliamentary privilege; contempt of parliament; the disciplinary powers of the parliament; the officers of the parliament; the offices of the parliament. Other topics dealt with include: a brief introduction to legislative drafting, the relationship of the UK Parliament and Australian parliaments and a brief comparison of the Westminster system and other parliamentary systems.

LAWS2800
Australian Immigration Law and Practice
Staff Contact: Dr Kathryn Cronin
CP15 SS HPW4

Examines Australian immigration law and practice. Focus is on the role of law in immigration selection and control, the developing concept of citizenship and alienage and exclusion principles and practices. Looks at different legal models of selection and control – ‘free movement’ systems, explicit exclusion models and the controls after entry on ‘illegal immigrants’. Topics include: freedom of movement, residence and citizenship, entry for migrants, and temporary residents, admission and stay under international obligation, illegal entry, compliance functions, the detention and removal of illegal immigrants, the immigration appeal system. Course assessment includes a clinical case advice component.

LAWS3020
Advanced Property and Equity
Staff Contact: A/Prof Chris Rossiter
CP15 SS HPW4

Explores in detail important equitable principles governing the creation, transfer and priority of interests in property, both real and personal. Topics include: the nature of fraud in equity; fiduciary relationships; undue influence; penalties and forfeiture. The course also considers equity's characteristic response to problems of injustice and unfairness as exemplified by the development, (as institutions and/or remedial devices) of constructive trusts and proprietary estoppel. The distinction between notions of property and contract is studied, particularly in relation to recent developments estoppel and relief against forfeiture of proprietary interests. Covenants governing the use of land at common law and in equity are studied in relation to general law and Torrens Title land.

LAWS3030

Trusts
Staff Contact: Dr Kam Fan Sin
CP15 SS HPW4

The nature, history and classification of trusts; the use of trusts in modern law; social control through trusts; express private trusts; purpose trusts; discretionary and protective trusts; the creation and variation of private trusts; trusts in commerce; resulting and constructive trusts; charitable and public trusts; the significance of charitable status; powers and duties of trustees.

A useful introduction to LAWS3050 Succession which develops a number of themes which are raised by a consideration of the law of trusts.

LAWS3050

Succession
Staff Contact: Ms Prue Vines
CP15 SS HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS3010 Property and Equity

The law governing succession to property on death including the rules relating to wills, administration of assets, family provision and intestate succession. Equitable doctrines relating to the law of wills and administration of estates, including construction of wills, marshalling, satisfaction, ademption, and donationes mortis causa. Emphasis is placed on Australia, but there is a significant comparative aspect to this course. Civil law systems, Aboriginal customary law and Islamic law of inheritance, inter alia, are considered. Although the rules of equity constitute a theme common to this subject and LAWS3020 and LAWS3030, there is no significant overlap. Students interested in both the law of trusts and the law of succession should do both LAWS3030 and LAWS3050; in that event it is preferable to do LAWS3030 first.

LAWS3210

Conveyancing and Land Transactions
Staff Contact: A/Prof Chris Rossiter
CP15 SS HPW4

The law of vendor and purchaser with special emphasis on the standard form contract of sale of land in use in New South Wales. Aims to benefit those intending to practise at the bar in the property and equity area as well as those who will be involved with conveyancing work as solicitors. Topics: whether a binding contract of sale exists, auction contracts; vendor disclosure and anti-gazumping legislation, the requirements of the Statute of Frauds, exchange of contracts, proper preparation of the contract of sale, detailed examination of the standard Law Society approved contract of sale, old system conveyancing, Strata Title conveyancing, the law concerning notices to complete and other remedies available to vendor and purchaser.

LAWS3410

Environmental Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4

This subject examines environmental law in both a theoretical and a practical sense. From the theoretical point of view, environmental law is considered through interdisciplinary perspectives in a policy setting. The non-legal perspectives in terms of which environmental law is considered include ecology, economics and philosophy. The practical orientation of the course is toward developing an understanding of the legal framework for environmental decision making in Australia, particularly in N.S.W. Topics to be covered include the relevance of ecology to environmental law, environmental ethics, international environmental law, Commonwealth powers with respect to the environment, a range of Commonwealth and NSW legislation relating to the environment, and different legal techniques for enhancing protection of the environment (e.g. regulation through the criminal law, through traditional common law techniques such as nuisance and private covenants, through economic incentive schemes, and through systems of consents and licenses). Litigation and alternative dispute resolution techniques are examined.

Attention is also given to: (1) the part played by political and administrative discretion in the field of environmental decision-making, with some emphasis on the tensions which exist between various levels and bodies of government; (2) the role of public participation in the decision making process; and (3) environmental law in other countries, particularly the U.S.

Students are encouraged to take an interest in topical environmental issues.

LAWS4020

Business Associations 2
Staff Contact: Mr Angus Corbett
CP15 S2 HPW4
Prerequisite: LAWS4010 Business Associations 1

Areas of company law and securities regulation not covered in LAWS4010 Business Associations 1, and particularly those of relevance to larger companies. Students who wish to complete a comprehensive study of company law and securities regulation are advised to take this subject in addition to LAWS4010.

The subject deals with topics within the fields of corporate finance and securities regulation (including the regulation of takeovers). Topics studied will be drawn from the following: (1) corporate finance including classes of shares, company accounts and audit, the protection of share capital, and the law of dividends; (2) securities markets and their regulation including insider trading and other market abuse, and the hearing and investigative powers of the Australian Securities Commission; (3) public issues of corporate securities including philosophies of new issue regulation, listing and quotation, prospectus requirements, liability for prospectus contents, and prescribed interests; (4) the regulation of takeovers; (5) corporate insolvency.

LAW4030

The Modern Corporation

Staff Contact: Prof Paul Redmond

CP15 SS HPW4

Examines on a comparative basis selected issues in law and social policy arising from the modern emergence of the large business corporation as a dominant institution in western economies. The object is to develop a critical understanding of corporate structures and operations and of regulatory systems.

The central theme concerns corporate control and governance. Topics include: 1. the distribution of corporate ownership and control modern patterns and their significance; 2. institutional share ownership recent developments and control implications; 3. the regulation of financial intermediaries; 4. networks of influence intercompany and business-government interlocks; 5. legal responses to the separation of corporate ownership and control with particular reference to the identification and transfer of corporate control; 6. structure, process and function in the public company board of directors; 7. corporate social responsibility; 8. industrial democracy; 9. employee participation in corporate capital formation; 10. state intervention in business industrial strategy, corporatism and managerial prerogatives; and 11. the regulation of multinational enterprise.

LAW4340

Trade Practices

Staff Contact: School Office

CP15 SS HPW4

Analyses the operation of competition law in Australia and the types of conduct and practices that are anti-competitive. The focus is on the restrictive trade practices provisions of the Trade Practices Act 1974, the decisions of the Federal Court and the determinations of the Trade Practices Commission and the Trade Practices Tribunal. Where relevant, US, UK and European decisions are considered.

LAW4350

Insurance Law

Staff Contact: School Office

CP15 SS HPW4

Basic principles of insurance law. Topics: 1. principles of insurance law; insurable interest; indemnity; good faith; subrogation; contribution; 2. insurance contracts: formation, warranties and conditions, cover, claims, brokers and agents; 3. the changes effected by the relevant legislation and the residual problems.

LAW4370

Commercial and Consumer Sales

Staff Contact: Dr Gail Pearson

CP15 SS HPW4

An introduction to principal areas of commercial law of relevance to legal practice. Topics: the liability of the seller, manufacturer and credit provider for goods, the obligations of the buyer and seller in contracts for the sale of goods; the transfer of property in goods; the law of misleading dealing. Students wishing to complete an introductory study of commercial law are advised to take LAWS4380. More advanced study of consumer protection is available in LAWS4390 Consumer Protection Law. Other areas of commercial law are dealt with in LAWS4540 International Trade and LAWS4800 The Law of Banking.

LAW4380

Commercial Finance

Staff Contact: Mr Ian Cameron

CP15 SS HPW4

Aims, with LAWS4370 Commercial Law A, to provide an introduction to principal areas of commercial law of relevance to legal practice. Topics: 1. negotiable instruments, including a study of commercial bills against the background of a description of the operation of the commercial bills and money markets; 2. secured transactions. Students are introduced to the law on securities over personal property including priorities. Reference is made to credit arrangements in use in the distribution and sale of goods and services; 3. introduction to law of bankruptcy.

Notes: This subject may be studied on its own but students wishing to complete an introductory study of commercial law are advised to take LAWS4370 Commercial Law A as well. Other areas of commercial law are dealt with in LAWS4390 Consumer Protection Law, LAWS4540 International Trade and LAWS4800 The Law of Banking.

LAW4390

Consumer Protection Law

Staff Contact: Dr Gail Pearson

CP15 SS HPW4

Legislative strategies for the protection of consumers and the effect of this legislation upon markets. The following protective strategies are considered: advertising self regulation; statutory regulation of advertising; the regulation of packaging and labelling; protection against sales promotion techniques; franchising; the licensing of persons dealing with consumers; product liability: statutory regulation of unconscionable conduct; and special procedures for consumer claims.

LAWS4440

Elements of Income Tax Law

Staff Contact: A/Prof Philip Burgess

CP15 SS HPW4

1. Introduction: the policies served by taxation with particular reference to distributional and economic objectives; the uniform tax system: the structure of the current Income Tax Assessment Act and its administration.

2. A critical analysis of the principal concepts of the law of income taxation and the taxation of capital gains and fringe benefits; the law on income and deductions as applicable to individuals: the trading stock provisions and tax accounting: concepts of residence and source. 3. The judicial interpretation of taxing statutes; ethical and policy questions concerning tax avoidance.

LAWS4450

Advanced Revenue Law

Staff Contact: A/Prof Philip Burgess

CP15 SS HPW4

Prerequisite: LAWS4440 Elements of Income Tax Law

Notes: Students should have completed LAWS4010 Business Associations 1 or be taking that course concurrently with LAWS4450.

Areas of income tax introduced in LAWS4440 Elements of Income Tax Law in greater depth. Several areas of income tax law and other revenue law not touched on in the earlier subject. Topics: 1. taxation of partnerships, trusts and companies, including capital gains tax; 2. assignment of income; 3. tax avoidance and evasion – analysis of general, and specific, antiavoidance legislation and penalties legislation; 4. an introduction to aspects of international tax including some international tax agreements; 5. tax decision making and review in the context of a mass decision making process; 6. an introduction to stamp duty.

CP15 SS HPW4

This 'computer law' course - known informally as 'Cyberspace Law' - examines the law governing the use of computing and data communications technologies, with a strong emphasis on the law of the internet / cyberspace. The main topics are the legal structure of cyberspace (particularly encryption technologies and internet self-regulation), property in cyberspace, 'computer crime', impact of telecommunications laws, data protection, privacy and surveillance, internet censorship, and tortious and other civil liability issues. A range of electronic commerce issues are touched on. No prior computing knowledge is required, and no computer use is required during the course. Computing and data communications concepts are explained where necessary. Further details are on the subject web pages (http://www2.austlii.edu.au/~graham/ITlaw).

Computer Applications to Law

Staff Contact: A/Prof Graham Greenleaf

CP15 SS HPW4

A 'hands-on' introduction to the uses lawyers can make of computer technology, including expert systems (systems that give legal 'advice'), hypertext, free-text retrieval and automated document generation. There is a strong emphasis on the use of these technologies over the internet. The strengths and limitations of each technology are assessed in light of the particular needs of legal reasoning, source materials and practice. Examples of the practical uses of each technology are demonstrated and considered critically, particularly litigation support systems.

Students will design and create their own internet legal resources including databases, hypertext, document generators and expert systems using programs provided, and with the world-wide-web as the main development platform. Prior computer knowledge is not required, but some experience in the use of microcomputers, and particularly word processing, is an advantage. It is also desirable to have completed, or take at the same time, Legal Research & Writing 2, or to have equivalent experience in computerised legal research, particularly... internet legal research. All classes take place in the Faculty Microcomputer Lab and enrolment is therefore limited.

The theme of this subject is the rule of law. It examines the role played by law and legal institutions in the division of political power, and falls into three parts: 1. the struggles between the courts, the parliament and the monarchy in seventeenth century England, with special attention to the conflict between Sir Edward Coke and James I, the English Civil War and the Glorious Revolution; 2. the political consolidations of eighteenth century England with special attention to Blackstone, as well as to the assessments of modern historians like E.P. Thompson and Douglas Hay; 3. the reception of legal ideas into the penal colony of New South Wales. The role played by rule of law in the political formation of a new society.

A Research Thesis project shall be approved by the School of Law if 1. the student has an academic background in legal study sufficient to handle the subject matter of the thesis in an adequate manner (an average mark of 65 percent in previous Law subjects is normally required). 2. the student has formulated a clearly defined project, which has been approved by a teacher in the field concerned who agrees to act as supervisor. Supervision may be conjoint, but at least one supervisor must be a full-time member of academic staff. A group research project may be undertaken (by two or three students, but no more) provided that a statement of the proposed division of work between members of the group is approved by the staff member agreeing to act as supervisor.

The School of Law will initially limit its approval for a Research Thesis to a 15 credit point project. A student who has received approval for a 15 credit point project may be given subsequent approval to have his or her project transferred to a 30 credit point project (LAWS6510). Similarly a student who has received approval for a 30 credit point project (LAWS6510) may be given retrospective approval for transfer to a 15 credit point project.

Thesis
The thesis must be typed on A4 bond paper and two copies must be prepared in a cover (spring back folder or bound). References may appear at the foot of each page or at the end of each chapter. As a general rule the thesis shall be a maximum of 12,000 words for a one session project or 20,000 words for a two session project.

Examination
Two examiners, one of whom may be the supervisor, shall be appointed for each thesis by the School of Law. The final date for submission of the thesis shall be the last day of session for which the candidate is registered for the thesis or such other date as the examiners may agree. Examiners may require a candidate or group of candidates to attend an oral examination on the subject matter of the thesis; examiners may require a thesis to be resubmitted under such conditions as the examiners may determine.

These electives permit selected students to obtain credit for approved research projects undertaken individually or in groups. No student shall be permitted to obtain more than 30 credit points in any combination of the subjects LAWS6510, LAWS6520, LAWS6530.

Social Security Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4

The role of the state in the provision of community resources, in particular in the redistribution of taxation revenue through the income maintenance system, and the role of law in the redistribution process. The major focus is an examination of the law, policy and practices of the Australian Social Security system. Other matters covered include: an examination of the causes and extent of poverty in Australia; the role of the state in the alleviation of poverty; the relationship between the Social Security Act 1991 (Cth) and other Commonwealth and State laws, such as the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 (Cth); the Family Law Act 1975 (Cth) the Child Support legislation and common law and statutory compensation systems; the role of law in effecting social change in general and redistribution in particular. Some of these topics will be dealt with in outline only.

Discrimination and the Law
Staff Contact: Ms Dome Boniface
CP15 SS HPW4

This subject deals with the law and policy of anti-discrimination and equal opportunity. The problem of arbitrary denials of equality to many different sorts of groups, in many different aspects of life, is one which is increasingly recognised. The law has an important role as an instrument of public policy in this area. The course examines legal mechanisms and agencies, particularly those in Australia, which seek to end or control discrim-
Clinical legal education takes students out of the classroom and places them in a legal practice. This is both to enable students to analyse the effect of law in practice, and to engender in students an appreciation of the ethical, social and practical complexity of the legal system. Students are required to attend the Faculty’s clinic, the Kingsford Legal Centre, one full day a week. The clinic is a community legal centre which provides a free legal service to the local community. Students work on clients’ files under the supervision of experienced solicitors. This involves the interviewing clients, and the research, drafting and preparation necessary to resolve legal difficulties by litigation or other means.

Students are also required to attend at least 4 advice sessions during which they interview people attending for legal advice from volunteer solicitor. A daily meeting and a weekly class provide an opportunity for discussion and analysis of the students’ experiences, and for instruction in legal procedure and skills. There are also regular opportunities to attend Court and Tribunals.

Major areas of work in which students will be involved include domestic violence, discrimination, consumer credit, victims compensation, family law, employment law, wills and legal aid and criminal justice issues.

As well as clients’ files, students have the opportunity to take part in community education, and in policy and reform work.

The subject is offered in both teaching sessions and over summer. A student who has enrolled in and who has passed or failed LAWS7210 Clinical Legal Experience may not enrol in this subject without the approval of the Associate Dean. It is suggested that the subject not be done in the final session of a student’s studies, as the subject may enable students to put further studies into a social and practical perspective.

Economic Analysis of Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP15 SS HPW4

The use of concepts of economics as a means of evaluating the appropriateness of legal rules. The concepts drawn from microeconomic theory and public economics (dealt with at a comparatively elementary level) are used to analyse existing and hypothetical legal rules within selected areas of law, such as property, tort, contract, constitutional law, environmental law, trade practices and business regulation, consumer protection and crime. Prior training in economics is not essential for students taking the course.

Constitutionalism
Staff Contact: Dr Arthur Glass, Prof Martin Krygier
CP15 SS HPW4

This course will introduce students to discussion and criticism of the institutional and theoretical underpinnings of a liberal-democratic constitutional order. It will do this by way both of examination of some of the key moments in constitutional development and design, and of discussion of some of the central issues of political and legal theory which constitutionalism raises. Among the topics which will be considered are: 1. Philosophical history of the notion of constitutionalism and of such related ideas as: sovereignty, rights, the rule of law, separation of powers, republicanism, and federalism. 2. Issues in the design of constitutional order: the American Founding Fathers, the nineteenth century idea of the Rechtsstaat (law-governed state), and contemporary constitutional experiments in post-communist Europe; 3. Constitutional interpretation, particularly the problem of indeterminacy of constitutional and legal texts; judicial review; the accommodation of a rigid constitutional text to social change; 4. What are the sources of constitutional legitimacy?

CP15 SS HPW4

The subject provides a comprehensive introduction, taught in three sections, to the history, philosophy and principles of Jewish Law. The first section addresses some of the fundamental principles of Talmudic Law, including its role as a legal system, its seat of authority, its flexibility, the place of equity and custom, the relationship between halacha (Talmudic Law) and the State of Israel, and its influence on other legal systems. The second section deals with the main headings of the Talmudic legal system – property, torts, contracts, partnership, agency, trusts, employer and employee, criminal law, privacy, marriage and divorce, inheritance, conflicts and choice of law, international law and legal procedure. The third section introduces text material (in English translation) on Talmudic civil and criminal law.

Pacific Islands Legal Systems
Staff Contact: A/Prof Owen Jessep
CP15 SS HPW4

This course looks at change, conflict and continuity in indigenous legal systems of the Pacific Islands against the background of colonialism, 'modernisation', and economic underdevelopment.

Topics include: the political status of Pacific Island entities and their constitutional development; theories relating to legal 'development'; the role of law courts and the legal profession in changing society; the nature of traditional society, colonialism, and social and economic change; the nature of customary law and dispute settlement and its integration with imported Western law and legal institutions; changing family law, land law and notions of criminal responsibility; theories of economic underdevelopment; international law problems facing Pacific Island nations; issues of ideology and gender. By developing an appreciation of the theoretical and practical problems arising from the attempted imposition, or adoption, of Western legal concepts and institutions in non Western countries, it is hoped that students will develop a more flexible, enquiring and critical attitude towards the legal institutions of their own society.

Roman Law in Medieval and Modern Europe
Staff Contact: Dr Richard Bauman
CP15 SS HPW4

There are no prerequisites for this subject and no special knowledge of Latin is required other than the usual legal tags.

The interaction between law and society is strikingly illustrated by the evolution of Civil Law in Medieval and Modern Europe. The subject proceeds from the Germanic invasions of Western Europe over the 4th and subsequent centuries, and the Impact on the law of both invaders and invaders. It then turns to the 'rediscovery' of Roman Law in Europe in the 11th and subsequent centuries and the gradual absorption of Roman Law into the legal systems of the German Empire, France, Spain, Italy and Scotland. The culmination is the Reception of Roman Law in those countries, followed by the Napoleonic Code and its offshoots which reincorporated Roman Law in a codified form but with the basic principles largely preserved.

Asian Business Law
Staff Contact: Ms Annette Marforing
CP15 SS HPW4

This course is intended as an introduction to the legal systems and business laws of China, Indonesia, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, Thailand, India and Vietnam.

The course is divided into five sections including: legal system and foreign investment law, business associations law, contract law, finance and securities law, and environment and dispute resolution law. The laws will be overviewed for each country and where appropriate comparisons made with Australian law. The laws will also be examined with reference to the particular social context and economic stage of development of each country, including the most recent changes in those laws.

LAWS8490
Roman Law and Modern Civil Law
Staff Contact: Dr Richard Bauman
CP15 SS HPW4

How did Roman Law, that supreme monument to the legal thinking of the ancient world, establish itself as an integral part of so many modern legal systems?

The course is divided into two segments. The first (weeks 1-7) covers the historical process by which Roman Law was assimilated in Medieval and Modern Europe. After noting the laws of the Germanic invaders who destroyed the Western Roman Empire, the discussion turns to the 'rediscovery' of Roman Law in the 11th and subsequent centuries and its gradual absorption into the legal systems of the Holy Roman Empire, France and other countries. Then follows the formal Reception of Roman Law, and finally the Napoleonic Code and its offshoots which reincorporated Roman Law in a codified form.

The second segment (Weeks 8-14) deals with the substantive law of modern systems descended from Roman Law, with special reference to contract and delict (torts). The French and Roman-Dutch systems are used as models. These two systems occupy somewhat different positions on the Civil Law spectrum. French Law is based on a code, whereas Roman-Dutch Law is uncodified. The segment makes useful comparisons between two systems which have both similarities due to their common origin and differences due to their post-Roman histories. Comparisons with Australian Law are also made at appropriate points.

Enrolments are invited from both undergraduate and postgraduate students. There are no prerequisites and no knowledge of Latin or any modern language is required. Translations of all necessary material are provided.

LLM students may arrange, in consultation with the Associate Dean (Postgraduate), to substitute additional written work for part of the lecture component.

Asian Legal Systems
Staff Contact: Ms Annette Matfording
CP15 SS HPW4

The legal systems in many Asian countries reflect a combination of traditional law together with received legal systems. This course will discuss the interaction of those various component parts of contemporary Asian legal systems. In particular, the following issues will be covered: Basic legal and political structures (the constitution, judiciary, legal profession, the role of the bureaucracy etc): Popular consciousness of the law; Adaptation of received legal principles and practices; ‘Legalisation’ of social issues; Application of different legal systems to different legal issues in the same community (influenced by factors such as religion and ethnic origin), and the extent to which legal and regulatory responses to external pressures relate to domestic cultural and political values.

These issues will be dealt with in the context of specific countries which may include China, Japan, Korea, India, Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand and Vietnam. This course complements the subject Asian Business Law as it provides the legal background for countries dealt with in that subject.

Legal 'Isms'
Staff Contact: Prof Martin Krygier
CP15 SS HPW4
This course is concerned with the views of the world that lie behind and shape, often unconsciously, our views of life and, within life, of law. These views are the 'isms' of the title. In western societies conventional 'isms' include liberalism, conservatism, legalism, literalism, positivism, constitutionalism, moralism, modernism, and, some would say, racism, colonialism, sexism. Critical 'Isms' have included radicalism, marxism, anarchism, post-modernism, feminism, interpretativism. The class will select several 'isms' for close analysis, with a particular focus on political 'isms' and with a view to uncovering their assumptions and implications for our understanding of law and life. The particular 'isms' chosen will vary with the individual choices made by particular classes.

Advanced Legal and Social Theory
Staff Contact: Robert Shelly
CP15 SS HPW4
This course examines three of the most important and diverse research programs in contemporary legal and social theory: 'hermeneutic', 'discourse theory' and 'theories of post-communist transformations'. Hermeneutics, stemming from the work of HG Gadamer, systematically explores the conditions for understanding and interpreting the meaning of human creations; from the general level of cultures as a whole through to particular aspects of culture such as literary and legal texts. Discourse theory, centring on the recent writings of J Habermas, investigates the social, political and legal preconditions necessary to sustain the plurality, diversity and functional integrity of contemporary advanced - capitalist societies. Transformation theory analyses the particular issues that currently confront societies that want to construct legal - democratic institutions and cultures out of the remnants of formerly communist systems of government. All three approaches reflect the highly interdisciplinary character of contemporary legal theory: synthesising aspects from literary theory, analytical and continental philosophy of language and communication as well as social and political theory. By examining these three different but often overlapping theoretical currents students will be encouraged to engage in in depth investigations into modes of thinking that are at the forefront of contemporary debates concerning the place and character of law in modern/ postmodern societies.
Rules for the Award of Degrees

Rules Applicable to Candidates for the Degrees of Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Jurisprudence

1. (1) The Bachelor of Laws degree may be conferred on the completion of any of the following courses:
   (a) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws;
   (b) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Commerce and Bachelor of Laws;
   (c) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Economics and Bachelor of Laws;
   (d) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws;
   (e) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts (Asian Studies) and Bachelor of Laws;
   (f) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Laws;
   (g) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Work and Bachelor of Laws;
   (h) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Science and Bachelor of Laws;
   (i) a combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Engineering (Civil) and Bachelor of Laws;
   (j) a course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

(2) The courses set out in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), and (i) of subrule (1) hereof are referred to in these rules as 'combined courses', and shall be courses of full-time study of not less than five years' duration.

3) The course leading to the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws (otherwise than as part of a combined course) shall be either:
   (a) a course of part-time and/or external study which (unless otherwise approved by the Faculty for special reasons) shall be of not less than six years' duration; or
   (b) a course of full-time study of not less than three years' duration, but no student shall be eligible to enrol in such course unless he or she is a graduate or graduand of any Faculty of the University or another university approved by the Faculty, or has other qualifications or experience deemed acceptable by the Faculty.

2. No person shall be permitted to enrol in any subject in the Faculty of Law at the same time as he or she is enrolled for any other degree or diploma in the University or elsewhere, except as may be necessary to complete the requirements of a combined course, or with the approval of the Faculty.

3. Where, in these Rules, reference is made to the requirement that a candidate shall complete a subject, the requirement shall be construed as meaning that the candidate shall:
   (1) attend such lectures, seminars, tutorials or other classes, and such court sessions, offices or institutions as may be prescribed in that subject, and maintain a satisfactory standard of preparation for and participation in such classes and activities;
   (2) perform satisfactorily in such exercises, essays, theses and other work (whether written, oral or practical) as may be prescribed in that subject and undertake any prescribed reading related to that subject; and
   (3) attain a satisfactory standard in the examination or examinations, and such other means of assessment of a candidate's results in that subject as the Faculty may prescribe.

4. The Faculty of Law shall specify a number of credit points in respect of each Law subject for which credit is given in the award of the degree of Bachelor of Jurisprudence or the degree of Bachelor of Laws (whether taken separately or as part of a combined course). On completion of the subject, a candidate shall be credited with the specified number of points.

5. (1) In the case of the Bachelor of Laws degree course credit shall be given for the subjects set out in the following table, each of which shall, unless otherwise determined by the Faculty, carry the number of credit points (if any) specified.

Any other subject specified by the Faculty.

The Faculty has determined that, with the permission of the Associate Dean and the subject teacher, undergraduate students may enrol in one or more subjects offered in the Master of Laws by Coursework degree. The credit points so earned shall be the same as are specified in the Subject Descriptions for the Master of Laws.

General guidelines: Students may apply to enrol in an LLM subject provided they:
- are within the last two years of their course;
- have no failures in the last two years;
- have completed all compulsory subjects, and
- have completed any prerequisites.

(2) Such subjects shall be taken in a sequence approved by the Faculty.

6. A candidate for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws (whether taken as part of a combined course or as a separate degree) shall complete:

(1) all of the subjects prescribed in Rule 5 under the heading 'Compulsory Subjects',

(2) selected subjects from the subjects prescribed in Rule 5 under the heading 'Elective Subjects' so as to comply with Rule 7,

(3) such Legal Research and Writing Programs, Prescribed Readings in Law, Moot Court Work and other work as the Faculty may require.

7. (1) A candidate for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws shall complete Elective Subjects prescribed in Rule 6 to the extent necessary to bring his or her total credit points for Compulsory and Elective Subjects to:

(a) in the case of a candidate for the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Social Science/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Science/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Social Work/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Commerce/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Economics/Bachelor of Laws, Bachelor of Engineering (Civil)/Bachelor of Laws. 405CP

(b) in the case of a candidate for the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence/Bachelor of Laws. 455CP
(c) in the case of a part-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree and a full-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree for graduates. 375CP
(d) in the case of a part-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree and a full-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree who may have received standing for law subjects taken as part of a degree course other than BJuris or LLB degree course taken at this or another approved university. 405CP
(e) in the case of a part-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree and a full-time candidate for the award of the Bachelor of Laws degree who may have received standing for law subject taken as part of a BJuris degree course taken at this or another approved university. 465CP

(2) A candidate's choice of Elective Subjects shall require the approval of the Faculty.

8. A candidate for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws as part of a combined course shall not be eligible to be awarded that degree until he or she has completed the additional requirements applicable to the other degree in such combined course.

9. In the case of the combined course leading to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Bachelor of Laws, the requirement for the award of the Bachelor of Jurisprudence degree shall be that, in addition to completing all requirements of the Bachelor of Laws degree course (including Law subjects totalling not less than 465 credit points), the candidate has completed subjects in another Faculty or Faculties comprising (unless specially approved by the Faculty) a major sequence of three years' study plus one first year subject. A candidate shall obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law to his or her selection of subjects in other Faculties, to the order in which he or she studies them. In approving such subjects, the Faculty shall have regard to the contribution the study of such subjects may reasonably be expected to make to the development of his or her capacity as a lawyer and understanding of the law.

10. The requirement for the award of the Bachelor of Jurisprudence degree shall be that the candidate has completed a course of full-time study of not less than three years' duration consisting of:

(1) Law subjects totalling not less than 225 credit points and including LAWS1120 Legal System - Torts, LAWS7410 Legal Research and Writing, LAWS1610 Criminal Law, LAWS2160 Administrative Law, LAWS1410 Contracts, LAWS2140 Public Law, LAWS7420 Advanced Legal Research, LAWS7430 Research Component and one of either LAWS8320 Legal Theory or LAWS8820 Law and Social Theory;

(2) Subjects in another Faculty or Faculties comprising, unless otherwise approved by the Faculty, a major sequence of three years' study plus one first year subject.

A candidate shall obtain the approval of the Faculty of Law to his or her selection of subjects, and to the order in which he or she studies them. In approving such subjects, the Faculty shall have regard to the object of providing an integrated program of legal and non-legal studies.

11. A student shall not be enrolled as a part-time student unless he or she satisfies the Faculty that his or her special circumstances preclude full-time study, and that his or her previous experience and/or study make it appropriate to admit him or her to part-time study for the award of the degree of Bachelor of Laws as a separate degree.

12. In these Rules, unless the contrary is indicated, 'the Faculty' means the Faculty of Law.
The University provides facilities for approved students to engage in advanced studies and research in Law leading to the award of higher degrees.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy is available in the Faculty of Law (Course 1730); this requires the completion of a program of research over a period of at least three years' full-time study and the preparation of a thesis. The degree of Doctor of Juridical Science (Course 1740), commencing in 1996, requires completion of at least three years of full-time study (one year of coursework and two years of research).

Research may also be undertaken by approved students for the degree of Master of Laws (Course 2440). An LLM degree by coursework (Course 9200) commenced in 1989. The degree of Master of Law and Management (Course 9210), commencing in 1996, may be taken full-time over three semesters or part-time over a minimum of five semesters.

The conditions for the award of the PhD degree, the SJD degree, the LLM degree by research, and the LLM degree by coursework, the MLM degree by coursework, and full details of graduate scholarships available are set out later in this book in the section Conditions for the Award of Higher Degrees.

Course Outlines

Doctor of Juridical Science

1740

SJD

The Doctor of Juridical Science degree provides an opportunity to combine a doctoral thesis with the coursework component of an LLM degree and allows significant research into an area of interest developed within the coursework program. In addition to the contact with academic staff fostered by the program, SJD students will become part of the mainstream student body of the law school and enjoy the advantages of contact with other committed research students. The degree consists of one third coursework (equivalent to one year full time) and two thirds research (two years full time) into an area encountered by the student while undertaking coursework. The SJD is intended to be equivalent to a PhD and therefore among the highest forms of degree that a university can award. The degree is intended to prepare candidates for an academic career, or for high level research and policy formulation. While exceeding the requirements of most practising lawyers who wish to undertake a higher degree, it is expected that, as has been the case in North America and elsewhere overseas, the SJD will be widely accepted by the profession as an indicator of expertise and original contribution to an area of knowledge.

The coursework component of the degree is described under the entry for LLM by Coursework. All coursework units must be completed before the commencement of the dissertation. After completion of at least four coursework units, students intending to enrol in the SJD dissertation may submit an outline of a proposed topic to the Associate Dean (Postgraduate). The topic of the dissertation will commonly be a development of at least one coursework unit, to be nominated by the candidate and approved by the Associate Dean (Postgraduate) after receipt of a recommendation from the lecturer(s) in the course(s) most concerned.

The dissertation must amount to an original contribution to a field of study, and be of publishable quality. It will be marked by not less than three examiners appointed by the Higher Degree Committee of the Faculty of Law. Marking as for other final research degrees, ie award / not award / re-submit. A final result of non-award of the SJD will lead to an LLM being conferred on the candidate.

9200 Master of Laws

LLM

The Master of Laws by formal coursework offers law graduates an opportunity to study in an organised fashion areas of specially and greater difficulty than could be handled in a Bachelor of Laws course, and some which call for advanced interdisciplinary perspectives.

Subjects offered in the LLM by coursework program combine a degree of sophistication or technical difficulty in terms of legal content with a substantial consideration of relevant interdisciplinary aspects of the subject matter and a focus on policy. Each subject contains a significant research component.

The LLM by coursework may be taken full-time in one year or part-time in a minimum of two years. Students shall undertake and satisfactorily complete six session-long (single semester) subjects or the equivalent. A total of 120 credit points is required for the award of the degree. Students may elect to complete a major sequence of subjects (refer below). All subjects will not necessarily be available in any one year. Postgraduate subjects are taught in a variety of formats both during the University's formal academic sessions and over the summer teaching break. While many are taught for two hours per week over a teaching session, in others the class hours are arranged more intensively to permit students to focus fully on their research project. Subjects of particular interest to local students are scheduled in the NSW State Library, the Faculty's city venue.

A student may apply to the Associate Dean (Postgraduate) to complete a research paper of about 30,000 words in place of one year-long subject, or one or two research papers of about 15,000 words each in place of one or two session-long subjects.

A student may apply to the Associate Dean (Postgraduate and Research) for permission to take, as appropriate to the student's overall program, up to two single-semester subjects (or the equivalent in year-long subjects) offered at postgraduate level by another University, and three single-semester LLB subjects offered by the Faculty (or the equivalent in year-long subjects)—provided that no student may be permitted to take in all more than three single-semester subjects of either type (or their equivalent in year-long subjects). A student taking an LLM subject shall be assessed in a manner and at a level appropriate to an LLM subject.

In 1998 the Faculty introduced changes to the LLM program to allow students to undertake studies in greater depth across a reduced number of areas. The changes mean that from 1998 students will be required to complete six rather than eight subjects to qualify for the degree, but those subjects will attract 20 credit points rather than 15 to reflect the increased content and assessment load within the subject. Students who commenced their studies prior to 1998 will have the option of completing their program using either the existing subjects, or the new subjects with the increased content, assessment and credit points, or any combination of them.

Specialist Major Sequences

1. Candidates for the LLM by course work may undertake study incorporating a major sequence in any one of the following specialist areas:
   - Criminal Justice
   - Media, Communications and Information Technology Law
   - Corporate, Commercial and Taxation Law
   - International Law
   - Asia-Pacific Law
   - Comparative Law

2. In order to incorporate a major sequence in the degree a student will be required to obtain no less than 60 of the 120 credit points required for the award of the degree from the subjects allocated to that major sequence (outlined below).

3. From time to time the allocation of subjects to major sequences may be altered.

4. The Associate Dean (Postgraduate and Research) may when he or she considers it appropriate authorise the inclusion of a Special Elective within, or the deletion of a Special Elective from among, the subjects allocated to a major sequence.

5. The Associate Dean (Postgraduate and Research) may when he or she considers it appropriate approve as part of an individual student's major sequence a subject or subjects taken by that student on a cross-institutional basis.
6. Where a special case is made, or where an individual student's assessment program for the subject concerned is tailored specifically to issues relevant to a major sequence, the Associate Dean may approve a subject not otherwise allocated to a major sequence as part of that student's major sequence.

7. The Research Thesis subjects LAWS6559, LAWS6569 and LAWS6579 may be counted towards the credit points required for a major sequence where, in the opinion of the Associate Dean, the subject matter of the thesis topic concerned is substantially related to the specialist area of the major sequence.

8. When a student completes the LLM by course work which incorporates a major sequence as above, the student's academic transcript will identify the major sequence and the subjects which constitute it and the student's Testamur will contain the words 'Master of Laws specialising in... (the major sequence completed)' or words to like effect.

6. Comparative Law
   In order to complete a major sequence in Comparative Law a student will be required to have followed a program of study structured to develop a sophisticated understanding of comparative law and/or of legal system, law and culture in jurisdictions other than any in which the student has already graduated.
To that end each such student will be required to obtain no less than 60 of the 120 credit points required for the award of the degree from subjects which the Associate Dean (Postgraduate and Research) has authorised or approved in that student's case as part of such a program of study.

Master of Law and Management

MLM
The Master of Law and Management by coursework is a specially designed masters degree which provides advanced study in the disciplines of law and management. Participants will be able to establish or reinforce a legal specialisation whilst acquiring or consolidating an understanding of the functional areas of management.

The degree is directed towards three primary target groups. First, lawyers in mid-career who already specialise or who wish to begin specialising in one or more areas of the law and who are working in the corporate environment. Second, practising managers in industry with a law degree who seek to broaden both their management and legal expertise. Third, lawyers with partnership status at senior or managing partner level and therefore significant management responsibilities within the firm.

The MLM is offered jointly by the Faculty of Law and the Australian Graduate School of Management (AGSM), with support from the Australian Taxation Studies Program (ATAX).

A minimum of three subjects (60 credit points) must be drawn from the choice offered by Law and ATAX and a minimum of four management subjects from the AGSM. The Law subjects include most of those listed for the LLM in this Handbook. The ATAX subjects are listed in the relevant Handbook. All subjects will not necessarily be available in any one year.

The AGSM compulsory subjects are: Managing People; Marketing Principles; Managers, Markets and Prices, and Corporate Finance. The elective management subjects, from which a maximum of two may be selected, are: Total Quality Management; Accounting and Financial Management; Skills for Managing People; and Enhancing Workforce Management.

The Law subjects will normally be taught in the evening at the NSW State Library, the Faculty's city venue. However, many subjects are available on campus, in alternative formats both during the academic sessions and over the summer teaching break. The AGSM subjects are available in four locations in the Sydney CBD and in five other major city venues interstate (participants may attend these synchronised classes if travelling). ATAX subjects are available by distance learning with audioconferences scheduled to suit busy professionals. Most classes are between 1.5 and 2 hours in duration. In addition, the AGSM subjects have on average two half-day Saturday workshops. Both the AGSM and ATAX subjects are supported by comprehensive open learning self-directed study materials. For AGSM subjects no other study resources need be obtained.

A total of 150 credit points is required for the award of the degree. The MLM by coursework is offered part-time only over a minimum of 2.5 years (five sessions).

In relation to Law subjects, students may apply to the Program Director for permission to take, as appropriate, one or two single-semester subjects (or the equivalent year-long subjects) offered at postgraduate level by another university.

The MLM is a full fee program. In 1997 the cost of Law subjects was $1,500 per subject, ATAX subjects was $1,200 and for AGSM subjects the fee per subject was $2,200.

Graduate Diploma in Law

Grad Dip
The Graduate Diploma in Law by formal coursework offers law graduates the opportunity of advanced graduate study either generally or within specialised areas without undertaking a full Master of Laws degree.

Most subjects within the program are also available to students enrolled in the Master of Laws degree. There is no difference between the Graduate Diploma and the Master of Laws by formal coursework degree in terms the content and depth with which particular subjects are studied — the Graduate Diploma merely requires completion of fewer subjects than would be required for a Master of Laws degree. Subjects combine a degree of sophistication or technical difficulty in terms of legal content with a substantial consideration of relevant interdisciplinary aspects of the subject matter and a focus on policy.

The Graduate Diploma may be taken full time in two sessions, or part time in a minimum of three sessions. Students shall undertake and satisfactorily complete four session-long (single semester) subjects or the equivalent. A total of 80 credit points is required for the award of the degree. Students may elect to complete a major sequence of subjects (refer below). All subjects will not necessarily be available in any one year. Subjects will be taught in relatively small discussion classes meeting for two hours once a week.

A student may apply to the Associate Dean (Postgraduate) to complete a research paper of about 30,000 words in place of one year-long subject, or one or two research papers of about 15,000 words each in place of one or two session-long subjects.

A student may apply to the Associate Dean (Postgraduate) for permission to take, as appropriate to the student's overall program, one single-semester subject offered at postgraduate level by another University, and two single-semester LLB subjects offered by the Faculty (or the equivalent in year-long subjects) - provided that no student may be permitted to take in all more than two single-semester subjects of either type (or their equivalent in year-long subjects). A student taking an LLB subject shall be assessed in a manner and at a level appropriate to an postgraduate subject.

Specialist Major Sequences

1. Candidates for the Grad Dip by coursework may undertake study incorporating a major sequence in any one of the following specialist areas:
   - Criminal Justice
   - Media, Communications and Information Technology Law
   - Corporate, Commercial and Taxation Law
   - International Law
   - Asia-Pacific Law
   - Comparative Law

2. In order to incorporate a major sequence in the degree a student will be required to obtain no less than 60 of the 80 credit points required for the award of the degree from the subjects allocated to that major sequence (outlined below).

3. From time to time the allocation of subjects to major sequences may be altered.

4. The Associate Dean (Postgraduate) may when he or she considers it appropriate authorise the inclusion of a Special Elective within, or the deletion of a Special Elective from among, the subjects allocated to a major sequence.

5. The Associate Dean (Postgraduate and Research) may when he or she considers it appropriate approve as part of an individual student's major sequence a subject or subjects taken by that student on a cross-institutional basis.

6. Where a special case is made, or where an individual student's assessment program for the subject concerned is tailored specifically to issues relevant to a major sequence, the Associate Dean may approve a subject not otherwise allocated to a major sequence as part of that student's major sequence.

7. The Research Thesis subjects LAWS6559, LAWS6569 and LAWS6579 may be counted towards the credit points required for a major sequence where, in the opinion of the Associate Dean, the subject matter of the thesis topic concerned is substantially related to the specialist area of the major sequence.

8. When a student completes the Graduate Diploma by coursework which incorporates a major sequence as above, the student's academic transcript will identify the major sequence and the subjects which constitute it and the student's Testamur will contain the words 'Graduate Diploma in Law specialising in...' (the major sequence completed) or words to like effect.

Graduate Enrolment Procedures

All students enrolling in graduate courses should obtain a copy of the free leaflet Re-Enrolling for Postgraduate Students available from School Offices and the Admissions Office. This leaflet provides detailed information on enrolment procedures and fees, enrolment timetables by Faculty and course, enrolment in miscellaneous subjects, locations and hours of Cashiers and late enrolments.

The following electives are available for credit towards the Master of Laws degree by Coursework, the Doctor of Juridical Science (coursework component), the Master of Law and Management degree, and the Graduate Diploma in Law.

Issues in Evidence

Staff Contact: A/Prof Jill Hunter

CP20 SS HPW2

Prerequisites: Undergraduate study of evidence and procedural law or (subject to approval), professional experience in evidence and procedural law.

The course is designed to:

Stimulate interest in a broad range of trial issues, especially those not traditionally canvassed in evidence courses. To foster in-depth and critical analysis of issues in evidence law and trial practice. To encourage a multi-disciplinary, comparative study of a range of topics associated with trials. Explore the impact of the Evidence Acts (NSW & Cwlth) 1995.

Topics vary from year to year. The following matters are core topics in all years.

History of court procedure and the development of the rationalist tradition in evidence law in an adversarial framework; issues relating to jury trials including the dynamics of the trial; the judge’s role in the trial: analysis of witness credibility from legal and socio-psychological perspectives; the impact of certain areas of the uniform Evidence Acts (NSW & Cwlth) 1995.

Other topics vary according to students’ interests. In the past these topics have included confessions; the rule against hearsay; opinion evidence; right to silence; prosecutorial (and defence) disclosure; identification evidence.

Assessment will be on the basis of optional class participation and a flexible mixture of examination, seminar presentations, set essay topics and/or research essay.

LAW1069

Law of Damages

Staff Contact: Staff Office

CP20 SS HPW2

An advanced analysis of theoretical and practical issues in the law of damages. The subject builds on an assumed knowledge of the general rules of damages in two ways:

(i) Theoretically, by an examination of the rules in the light of contemporary historical and jurisprudential analysis. Of particular relevance will be economic analysis and comparative law.

(ii) Practically, by an examination of the rules in a procedural context.

The subject will focus on current issues and problems but three constant themes will run through the subject: 1 Doctrinal issues (e.g. causation, remoteness); 2 Heads of damages (e.g. loss of money, injury to reputation); 3 Procedural considerations.

LAW1079

Restitution

Staff Contact: Mr Denis Harley

CP20 SS HPW2

This subject examines legal principles which seek to define circumstances where the recipient of a benefit must be compelled to disgorge it (or its value) lest he/she be unjustly enriched at the expense of the party conferring that benefit. After noting situations where the common law has long allowed claims in 'quasi contract'; the subject then observes the way in which the older 'imputed contract to return the benefit' rationale for allowing these claims has been increasingly discarded by courts in favour of a more candid acknowledgment of the need to impose restitutory obligations to avoid an unjust enrichment. Two major parts of the modern law of restitution are then identified: ie (i) principles applicable to situations where no branch of law, other than the law of restitution, would recognise a basis of liability; and (ii) principles applicable to situations where some other branch of law would recognise a basis of liability, but a restitutory remedy might also be available in the circumstances.

The main focus of the subject is upon the former of the two areas, and attention is given to the extent to which proprietary, as well as personal, actions may be available to a plaintiff. Differing modern theories as to the rationale for, and appropriate limits upon, restitutionary claims are also considered. Some topics that may be covered are: Recovery in respect of money paid, services rendered, or property transferred under a mistake of fact or law; Recovery in respect of benefits conferred under ineffective transactions; Rights to contribution; Rights to recoupment following compulsory discharge of another’s liability; Restitution in respect of benefits conferred in an emergency; Subrogation.

Feminist Legal Theory and Practice

Staff Contact: School Office

CP20 SS HPW2

This course scrutinises key debates in feminist jurisprudence and applies them to a number of important issues of practice. Theoretical issues considered include the public/private distinction, the meaning of inequality for women and questions of epistemology and methodology. These themes will then be applied to concrete issues, using a crossdisciplinary framework of legal analysis. Topics examined may include the construction of women's connection to others in legal discourses (eg through reproductive issues), and a conceptual framework for dealing with injuries to women, along a continuum of harms from medical injuries to media vilification. A central focus will be on practical questions of strategy, looking at the possibilities for a feminist legal practice. This will include examination of gender-neutrality; alternative dispute resolution, the creation of new legal claims designed from the standpoint of women and an examination of the 'theorics of practice'.

Families and Financial Adjustment
Staff Contact: A/Prof Owen Jessop
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject provides a critical examination of a set of linked areas of law associated with family property adjustment and financial transactions. Although there may be some variations from year to year, topics will normally comprise:
1. Law, procedure and practice relating to property adjustment under the Family Law Act 1975 (C'wealth) and under the De Facto Relationships Act 1984 (NSW);
2. The law of financial agreements (Family Law Act) and separation and cohabitation agreements (De Facto Relationships Act);
3. Family law aspects of social security;
4. Family law aspects of bankruptcy;
5. Family law aspects of inheritance and family provision (TFM);
6. Family law aspects of taxation.

The treatment will emphasise the interaction of different areas of law, and the significance of this interaction both for practice and for an understanding of the policies involved. Experienced family law practitioners may participate in some classes.

There are no prerequisites, but students who have not studied or practised in family law may need to do some background reading.

Sentencing: Law, Policy and Practice
Staff Contact: A/Prof George Zdenkowski
CP20 SS HPW2

The overall aim of the subject is to acquaint students with aspects of law, policy and practice relating to the sentencing process.

The following topics are generally covered although the content may vary from year to year: theories of punishment; legal framework for sentencing; information systems; public opinion and the media; the sentencing process (discretion, procedure, role of victims and prosecution, appellate review); sentencing options; conditional release; administration of the sentence; special categories of offenders; sentencing reform.

LAWS1719
Community Corrections
Staff Contact: Prof David Brown
CP20 SS HPW2

At any one time in Australia three forms of community corrections: probation, parole and community service orders involve three times as many people as those in prison. The percentage of people under some form of community supervision is steadily increasing. A number of legal and social issues and implications arise from these tendencies and insufficient attention has been devoted to them. In addition there are even newer developments such as home detention based on forms of electronic monitoring, the privatisation of penal practices, the development of a range of specialist 'diversionary' schemes both pre and post trial. This subject will examine these important issues.

Topics include: the development of community corrections, community corrections as social control. Analysis of the legal foundation and operation of a range of specialist diversionary schemes. An examination of the agencies gathering information used in determining eligibility for such schemes. Probation, community service orders, parole, parole supervision. Release on licence provisions. The role of volunteers. Halfway houses and hostels, conditions of residence, forms of supervision, legal and ethical issues, evaluation. The legal, social and ethical issues surrounding the development of home detention schemes and forms of electronic monitoring of people on conditional release. The development in the USA of extensive privatisation of corrective functions and personnel. Australian trends. Examination of reform directions.

Punishment in Contemporary Society
Staff Contact: Mr Dirk Meure
CP20 SS HPW2

This course takes a critical look at current debates around issues of punishment, its practices and procedures. It aims to provide a guide to understanding the strategic importance of punishment today. Topics include: problems of method; sociological visions of punishment and control; Durkheim and the neo Durkheimians; punishment and exchange; punishment and normalisation; punitive discourse; truth and the sentence; contemporary panoptics; and, reforming the sentence.

LAWS1759
Crime Prevention Policy
Staff Contact: Prof David Brown
CP20 SS HPW2

Crime prevention policy has traditionally been regarded as synonymous with the operations of the criminal justice system. Clearly the operations of the major criminal justice agencies - the police, courts and prisons are an important part of the response to crime. However, research shows that these agencies have a very limited effect on the incidence of crime. This is hardly surprising when we consider that the causes of criminal offending lie in economic, social and cultural factors which by and large lie outside the criminal justice system. It is therefore imperative to develop approaches to crime prevention which focus on a broad range of areas and social agencies outside the traditionally defined criminal justice system. The emphasis should be on the attempt to link these various areas and to develop crime prevention policy.
Juvenile Justice

Staff Contact: Ms Jennifer Bargen
CP20 SS HPW2

Juvenile delinquency has emerged in recent years as an important political issue. The various agencies and practices of the criminal justice system as they apply to juveniles are sufficiently distinctive to warrant special examination. Specific policing schemes are in operation such as juvenile cautioning. There are specific legal requirements in relation to police interrogation of juveniles. The Children's Court although broadly assimilated into the Local Court system has various distinctive features. Welfare-based intervention is more extensive. There are specific issues and problems in the juvenile corrections area. An increasing number of lawyers, social and youth workers and policy advisors are working in the juvenile justice area.

Topics include: historical aspects of juvenile delinquency, the 'child-saving' movement, patterns of juvenile offending, juvenile crime prevention, policing, children as victims, children as complainants and witnesses, police interrogation practices and cautioning schemes, the Children's Court, juvenile advocacy, juvenile institutions, community correctional programs, specialist youth services, issues and problems in reform. The primary concentration will be on theory, policy practices and developments in juvenile justice in NSW.

LAW6179
Policing
Staff Contact: A/Prof David Dixon
CP20 SS HPW2

This course focusses on policing as a set of social and legal practices and institutions. It is particularly concerned with the potential role of law in policing, both as a resource and as a regulator. Comparative material is used, drawing out similarities and contrasts between policing in New South Wales and elsewhere. The course's approach is interdisciplinary, drawing on a wide range of historical, socio-legal and criminological research.

Policing is placed in its social and historical contexts by assessing conflicting interpretations of its history and of police public relations. This leads to an investigation of some developments in modern policing. In particular, the course investigates police uses of law, the relevance of law to policing, and the effectiveness of statutory and other rules in influencing and controlling police decisions and activities. Classes will also discuss police culture, the policing of social divisions, police corruption and deviance, the policing of public order, fictional representations of policing, investigative methods, developments in community, private and international policing, and the limits and possibilities of police reform in the wake of the Royal Commission into the NSW Police Service.

LAW61779
Juvenile Justice

Staff Contact: A/Prof Sandra Egger
CP20 SS HPW2

There have been dramatic changes in the prosecutorial arena in recent years. To the traditional (police) prosecuting agencies have been added federal and state DPPs, the NCA, the ICAC, specialist Task Forces, specialist prosecution units in specific offence areas, numerous Royal Commissions, among others. In addition to the proliferation in prosecution agencies a range of new investigative and prosecutorial techniques and practices have emerged. These in turn have generated a range of legal, social and ethical issues around questions of independence, accountability and control.

Proposed topics include: the emergence of the 'new' prosecutors and key themes in their evaluation; the legal constitution and operation of a number of agencies such as DPPs, NCA and ICAC; an analysis of some investigative and prosecutorial techniques and practices, such as witness immunities, phone tapping, electronic surveillance, assets forfeiture etc.

The 'New' Prosecutors

CP20 SS HPW2

This course examines Australia's telecommunications and radiocommunications law and relevant provisions of the Trade Practices Act which affect competition in communications markets. Major topics include an overview of developments in relevant communications technologies; the regulation of industry structures; interconnection amongst telecommunications networks; anti-competitive conduct; and consumer issues, such as universal service, privacy and pricing.

LAWS2229
Electronic Communications: Content and Control
Staff Contact: Jock Given
CP20 S2 HPW2

This course covers the laws which regulate who controls Australia's electronic media enterprises and what they do with them. This particularly includes the Broadcasting Services Act.

Major topics include the regulation of the Internet and online services; the constitutional context for the regulation of communications services in Australia; trade in audiovisual services; the licensing of commercial, community and other broadcasting services; ownership and control of the electronic and other media; and the regulation of electronic media content. The subject is one of two Electronic Communications subjects available in the LLM, and is best taken after LAWS2219.

LAWS2239
The Media and the Law: Defamation
Staff Contact: Prof Michael Chesterman
CP20 S1 HPW2

Advanced treatment of laws imposing restrictions upon publication irrespective of the mode of publication (broadcasting, newspapers, books, etc). This includes discussion of practical aspects, and of basic questions of constitutional law and policy, notably the definition of freedom of expression and the balancing of this freedom against opposing considerations such as preservation of individual reputation. Material from constitutional law, comparative law and international law is included, and proposals for reform are discussed.

Topics include: Freedom of expression and the media; defamation, civil and criminal; other forms of protection of business reputation.

Note: LAWS2239 will be taught in Session One and LAWS2249 in Session Two.

Australian Legal System
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW4

Prerequisite: Approval of the Associate Dean (Postgraduate and Research)

This subject provides a basic understanding of common law and the Australian legal system. It is intended for students whose legal background is in non-common law jurisdictions. It has a strong focus on techniques of common law legal reasoning, which is essential for the non-common law practitioner to understand when dealing with common law legal systems. It deals with the principal institutions of the legal system, particularly the courts; the legislature and the executive arms of government; the judiciary; the legal profession – its history, role, interrelationships, operation and techniques; the doctrine of precedent and statutory interpretation, practice and theory; sources of Australian law including the past and present status of Aboriginal customary laws; the origins of common law; the colonisation of Australia; classifications within the common law, and the jurisdiction of Australian courts.

Comparative Constitutional Law
Staff Contact: Prof George Winterton
CP20 SS HPW2

Prerequisite: LAWS2150 or equivalent

Examines and compares the operation of major institutions and doctrines of constitutional law in Australia, the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, India and elsewhere. Differences and similarities are noted and assessed. Topics include: review of legislative and executive action; the role of the judiciary; federalism and devolution; national/regional financial relations; relations between legislature and executive; civil liberties; emergency powers; constitutional reform.

LAWS2609
Issues in Human Rights
Staff Contact: Prof Garth Nettheim
CP20 SS HPW2

Prerequisite: LAWS2620 Human Rights Law or equivalent

The subject examines issues of current concern in Human Rights Law. The issues selected will vary from time to time. They will include consideration of the adequacy of International Law standards and processes; regional approaches to human rights protection; the adequacy of Australian law and machinery, with comparative references to other relevant countries.
LAWS3419
Environmental Law and Policy – General Principles and Perspectives
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
This course is intended to provide students with a sound understanding of a number of areas of environmental law with a focus on those areas which have undergone significant transformation in recent years or which hold the potential for change in coming years. The course considers recent developments in environmental law and new approaches and strategies which are emerging to address environmental issues. The areas of focus include international environmental law, Federal/State relations within Australia regarding environmental regulation, pollution control strategies and environmental decision making and dispute resolution.

Issues addressed in the course include: developments in international environmental law such as the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, the Climate Change Convention and the Biodiversity Convention, the effectiveness of such developments and their impact on Australia; pollution control and new regulatory approaches such as fiscal methods of control, tradeable pollution permits and prosecution guidelines; intergovernmental relations in Australia regarding the environment and recent events such as the Intergovernmental Agreement on the Environment and the creation of the National Protection Authority; and environmental dispute resolution including recent developments regarding judicial decision making and formalised mediation procedures.

Issues in Intellectual Property
Staff Contact: A/Prof Jill McKeough
CP20 SS HPW2
The aim of this subject is to develop themes and issues concerning the protection of ideas, business reputation or innovations and commercialising and trading in such subject matter.

The subject pursues in depth issues which assume in the student an understanding of intellectual property law. General principles will not be covered, rather, specific topics. International, policy and theoretical aspects may be addressed.

Typically, the topics may include: global information policy and the role of copyright in a technological society; the collective administration of copyright; patenting of biotechnological inventions; international and regional developments in trade, parity of protection for ideas, current treaty negotiations; aspects of technology transfer; issues for developing countries; practical dimensions of litigation of intellectual property matters; reform and development of intellectual property; other topical issues.

LAWS4219
Technology Transfer: International Intellectual Property Transactions
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
Prerequisite: Undergraduate study in Intellectual Property or LAWS4209 Issues in Intellectual Property or equivalent

This subject examines the legal framework within which technologies are transferred between countries, emphasising the technology/development debate. There will be a focus on technology transfer between countries of the Asia-Pacific region (including China, Japan, Australia and the USA), and students will have the opportunity to concentrate on the technology transfer problems of one country in the region. Topics include: the role of technology transfer in economic development; the role of intellectual property in technology transfer; the patent system and international patent documentation; copyright, encouragement of indigenous creativity, and the free flow of information; trademarks and competition in developing countries; the functions and effects of international organisations (including WIPO, GATT and UNCTAD) and intellectual property conventions (e.g. renegotiation of the Paris Convention); the UNCTAD Draft Code for the International Transfer of Technology; export of dangerous technologies; biotechnology and the Third World; domestic controls on technology exports; the recognition and enforcement of foreign intellectual property under national laws; and comparisons with European regional developments (e.g. European Patent Office, EC directives). The drafting of international licence agreements is not covered in this course.
LAWS4229
Commercial Property Transactions
Staff Contact: A/Prof Chris Rossiter
CP20 SS HPW2

This course is designed to equip students with a knowledge of contract, equity and property law and cognate statute law governing the conduct of commercial land dealings. The course goes beyond a study of the standard form contract for sale of land used in New South Wales and treats topics of national interest and importance and of significance for cross border transactions. Where a study of state legislation is made, the New South Wales model will be used although reference may be made, for comparative purposes, to the legislation in other states. Topics to be studied include: Issues of formation – formal and informal agreements; intention; agreements deferring essential terms; machinery for settlement of terms; exclusive dealing and restitution for expenses incurred; letters of comfort; agreements to negotiate in good faith; estoppel: foreign investment; FIRB requirements; Enforceability – statutory formalities; part performance; estoppel; Options – nature of put and call options; formalities for creation; assignment of options; exercise of options; relief against forfeiture of options; rights of pre-emption; Vendor disclosure – the common law and caveat emptor; mandatory vendor disclosure legislation; the Trade Practices Act, 1974 and the Fair Trading Act, 1987; Title – the fee simple; strata title; community land title; native land title; objections to and requirements on title; termination for defective title; compensation and damages for defective titles; Remedies – rescission and termination; rescission for non-fulfilment of condition; discharge for breach under the general law; termination for failure to complete – the essentiality of time and notices to complete; anticipatory breach and repudiation; the obligation to tender performance and the right to dispense with tender of performance; express avoidance clauses; damages under the general law; liquidated damages and penalties; compensation for errors and misdescription; remedies under the Trade Practices Act, 1974; specific performance; forfeiture of land and development contracts and relief against forfeiture.

LAWS4319
Securities Regulation
Staff Contact: Prof Paul Redmond
CP20 SS HPW2

The broad aim of this subject is to examine the structure and regulation of markets for corporate securities. The study is primarily a legal analysis although it considers some financial theory relevant to legal responses to market operations. The following topics are covered: the legal structure of co-regulation of securities markets including the role and powers of the Australian Stock Exchange and the Australian Securities Commission; the efficient market hypothesis and its implications for mandatory corporate disclosure and prospectus regulation; prospectus disclosure and the liability of those associated with prospectus preparation and issues; the licensing of securities dealers and investment professionals; the conduct of securities business; abusive trading on secondary markets, including stock market manipulation and insider trading.

LAWS4329
Banking and Finance Law
Staff Contact: Prof Paul Redmond
CP20 SS HPW2

The overall aim of the subject is to acquaint students with the law and practice governing the financing of commercial enterprise. The particular focus of the subject is upon issues in the raising of debt finance in its principal forms including secured transactions, subordinated and unsecured lending, bank finance and capital market borrowings, and syndicated loan financing. The following topics are covered: negotiable instruments; stamp duty considerations; project and infrastructure financing; security and guarantees; insolvency issues in banking and finance, including voluntary administration; securitisation; leasing; selected lending techniques including syndication, transferable loan facilities and co-financings; international capital markets.

LAWS4339
Derivatives Regulation
Staff Contact: Prof Paul Redmond
CP20 SS HPW2

Derivative financial products are a class of financial contract whose value depends upon that of underlying assets or indices of asset values. Derivatives have become an integral part of modern financial risk management. The subject examines the legal regime governing derivatives trading together with legal issues facing those designing these financial products. This subject covers the following topics: the general structure and regulation of exchange traded derivatives and over the counter derivatives; definition of futures contracts and dealings; the licensing of brokers and advisors; brokers’ duties; market offences such as bucketing, churning, fraud, manipulation, and dissemination of false and misleading information; over the counter markets; options; swaps, forwards and hybrids; FOREX and capital markets; ISDA documentation; netting; enforceability issues; self-regulatory organisations.

Regulation of Collective Investments
CP20 SS HPW2
The objective of this course is to examine the regulatory framework of collective investment schemes and their implications for investors. The focus is on the risks to investors in participating in such schemes and the extent to which regulation can contain such risks. Besides policies and principles of regulation, the course will examine practical issues from a compliance perspective. Topics include the concept of collective investments; objectives, techniques and width of regulation; scheme constitution; responsible entity and its officers, their fiduciary and statutory duties, licensing and compliance plans; custody of scheme assets, their investment, and portfolio regulation; scheme units, their issue, redemption, pricing and marketing; and rights of investors.

LAWS4359
Corporate Insolvency
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
The subject examines the theory and practice of corporate insolvency focussing on company receivership and liquidation. It covers the winding up of a corporation, the appointment of a provisional liquidator, the powers and duties of the receiver and manager, the operation of the administration procedures under the Corporation Law (with UK analogies), and the powers and duties of the liquidator including an examination of the realisation and distribution of the corporation's assets, the position of unsecured creditors, and the potential liability of a corporation's controllers. Reference will be made, as appropriate, to the insolvency regimes in force in other countries, and to the theoretical difficulties in loss sharing in 'common pool' activities.

International Taxation
Staff Contact: A/Prof Philip Burgess
CP20 SS HPW2
Prerequisite: LAWS4440 or equivalent
With the closing of many domestic tax loopholes, the deregulation and meshing of the Australia economy with the world economy, international tax has moved out of the esoteric domain and become part of day to day practice. Fundamental changes were introduced by the Foreign Tax Credit System, the 'controlled' Foreign Corporation measures and the foreign investment fund rules. The Tax Office is in the process of strengthening its complex audit and information gathering capacity to challenge many arrangements. These changes must be linked to existing law and the double tax treaties.

This subject may be offered in conjunction with the following: ATAX 0304/0404 International Comparative Tax or ATAX 0309/0409 International Tax: Anti-Avoidance.

Tax Procedure
Staff Contact: A/Prof Philip Burgess
CP20 SS HPW2
Prerequisite: LAWS4440 Elements of Income Tax Law or its equivalent
This subject examines the law governing the tax collection process and the practices which have evolved in the course of that process. Topics include: 1 Tax rule-making: balance between statutes, regulations and rulings. Drafting of tax legislation and modes of consultation. The legislative process (with comparative insights). The role of discretions in tax legislation. 2 Internal organisation of the tax office. Self assessment and its monitoring. Complex audit, business audit, desk audit. Compliance strategies. 3 Information gathering powers of the tax administration and their limitations, including professional privilege and the privilege against self-incrimination. Powers of taxpayers to obtain information on the basis of assessments. 4 Review mechanisms for tax office decisions: the Administrative Appeals Tribunal and the Courts. Procedural rules. Presenting a tax case (Documents, application of rules of evidence, use of experts). 5 Negotiation. 6 Collection and recovery of tax. Tax as an example of mass decision-making in the public sector.

This subject may be offered in conjunction with the following: ATAX 0306/0406 Current Problems in Tax Decision-Making.

LAW4509
The Frontiers of Contract
Staff Contact: Denis Harley
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject attempts an overview of the place of contract law in the Australian legal system. It does this primarily by examining the essence of contractual obligation and comparing contractual rights and obligations with those recognised by other branches of private law; some aspects of contracts with public bodies may also be considered.

After examining the usual division of the law of obligations into the laws of contract tort and restitution, the subject considers the extent to which the traditional province of contract law has been reshaped by a resurgence of equity, and has been encroached upon by recent developments in the law of tort, the law of restitution, and statutes controlling misleading conduct in trade or commerce. Also explored are the potential consequences for contract law of judicial reconsideration of some doctrines which have often been thought to define its boundaries (eg the doctrine of privity; and the rule that the supply of ‘consideration’ is a precondition for enforcement of a promise not set out in a deed). Finally, some important overlaps and differences between the law of contract and the law of property, and some borderlands between the two, are considered. The subject takes particular note of major scholarly writings concerning the essence of contractual obligation and the possible futures of contract law.

LAW4519
Commercial Contracts: Problems of Performance, Breach and Termination
Staff Contact: Mr Denis Harley
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject focuses in depth upon principles of contract law which govern the performance, breach and termination of many commercial and conveyancing transactions; it is concerned with complex applications of general contract law principles rather than with more specific rights that are sometimes conferred by statutes dealing with ‘consumer’ contracts. The subject systematically examines a large number of issues which may arise in the course of contractual performance but can seldom be fully considered in undergraduate contract law courses, despite their considerable practical importance. In the course of this examination, the subject addresses a range of difficult questions that have been raised in recent judgments of the High Court of Australia, but often remain unanswered. While the subject seeks primarily to reveal frequently unrecognised interrelations between legal principles, very considerable class time is devoted to discussion of issued problems which highlight the practical significance and dimensions of conceptual issues. Some specific topics likely to be considered are: contingent conditions precedent to the duty of performance, and their elimination; confusion arising from the multiple classifications of serious breaches; problems in identifying a repudiation and acting upon it; the effect of an unaccepted repudiation; the consequences of repudiation where the victim is not ready, willing and able to perform its own obligations; unconscionable exercises of a right to affirm, or a right to terminate, following serious breach; problems raised by Shevill’s case; identification of rights surviving termination.

LAW4609
Developing Computer Applications to Law (A):
Database, hypertext and communications technologies
Staff Contact: A/Prof Graham Greenleaf
CP20 SS HPW2

The theory and practice of developing computer applications for use in the law, emphasising the use of database, text retrieval and hypertext techniques. There is a strong emphasis on the use of these technologies over the internet. The special requirements of legal materials are emphasised. Examples of the practical uses of each technology are demonstrated and considered critically, particularly litigation support systems, and others such as sentencing systems and land information systems. Topics may include: principles of free-text retrieval; deficiencies of existing retrieval techniques; distributed retrieval over the internet; ‘interventionist’ interfaces; principles of hypertext; ‘conceptual’ retrieval systems; measuring the performance of retrieval systems; electronic filing of documents and document exchange; hypertext and text retrieval over the internet. Each student will design and implement an internet-based computer application in an area of law of the student’s choice. The use of appropriate development tools is taught during the course. Familiarity with the use of a microcomputer and a word processing program is a pre-requisite, but a knowledge of programming is not required. Familiarity with computerised legal research is desirable, particularly internet legal research. All classes take place in the Faculty Microcomputer Lab and enrolment is therefore limited.

LAW4619
Developing Computer Applications to Law (B):
Knowledge-based technologies
Staff Contact: A/Prof Graham Greenleaf
CP20 SS HPW2

The theory and practice of developing computer applications for use in the law, emphasising the use of ‘knowledge-based’ technologies such as expert systems (systems that give legal advice) and automated legal document generators. There is a strong emphasis on the use of these technologies over the internet. Systems in use in public administration and private practice will be demonstrated and discussed critically. Topics include: the nature of legal knowledge and reasoning and its capacity for computerised representation; relationship between formal logics, legal reasoning and expert systems; rule-based expert systems; non-deductive expert systems; special problems of statute-based and case-law representation and reasoning; principles of automated document generators; integrated legal information systems; implications for the delivery of legal services and the rule of law. Each student will design and implement a computer application in an area of law of the student's choice. The use of appropriate expert systems and document generation programs (or 'shells') is taught during the course for this purpose. Familiarity with the use of a microcomputer and a word processing program is a pre-requisite, but a knowledge of programming is not required. All classes take place in the Faculty Microcomputer Lab and enrolment is therefore limited. Legal Computer Applications Development (A) is not a pre-requisite for this course, but students who have not completed that course should seek advice before enrolling.

Staff Contact: Ms Irene Nemes
CP20 SS HPW2
Exclusion: Completed LAWS7420, or equivalent, in the last two years

This course covers legal research skills, techniques and methodology. It aims to familiarise students with sophisticated techniques for finding the law as well as the conventions of presenting their research in a written form. The interdisciplinary nature of legal research involves an appreciation of empirical and social science methodology, including the ethics of research. The course will focus on both hard copy and electronic resources, allowing students the opportunity of evaluating and comparing them in different situations. Students will receive hands on training in researching case law, statute law, secondary material, current awareness services and the Internet. The ultimate objective of the course is to help students achieve an appreciation of the process and method of legal research.

The social and legal implications of data surveillance (the techniques of social control through the use of information technology) in both public and private administration, and legal responses such as information privacy (or 'data protection') laws, telecommunications interception and surveillance laws. There is a strong emphasis on the impact of new technologies such as the internet, encryption, biometric identifiers, and surveillance techniques. Topics include: uses and effectiveness of data surveillance in government administration, prevention of credit and insurance fraud, direct marketing and criminal investigation; identification law and practice (population registers, smart cards etc); marketing surveillance and other privacy invasions on the internet; telecommunications interception; 'data surveillance law' as a new method of public administration; the effectiveness of general law (eg breach of confidence) and such legislation as the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) and the Data Matching Program (Assistance and Tax) Act 1990; privacy aspects of freedom of information laws, official secrets laws, credit reporting legislation and 'spent convictions' legislation; international standards and regulation of 'data exports', particularly the European Union's privacy Directive. Each student will conduct research on the legality, use and effectiveness of data surveillance techniques, and the effects of data protection law, on one area of public administration or commercial practice.

Research Thesis: One-session elective
CP20 S2

A Research Thesis project shall be approved by the School of Law if:

1. a clearly defined project is presented; the thesis topic must be approved at the outset but may be modified at a later stage.
2. the student has an academic background in legal study sufficient to handle the subject matter of the thesis in an adequate manner.
3. adequate supervision is available; supervision may be conjoint but at least one supervisor must be a full-time member of academic staff.

The School of Law may approve a Research Thesis but in doing so may limit its approval to a one-session elective. A student who has received approval for a one-session elective may be given subsequent approval to have his or her project transferred to a two-session elective (LAWS6559). Similarly a student who has received approval for a two-session elective (LAWS6559) may be given retrospective approval for transfer to a one-session elective.

Thesis

The thesis must be typed on A4 bond paper and two copies must be prepared in a cover (spring back folder or bound). References may appear at the foot of each page or at the end of each chapter. As a general rule the thesis shall be a maximum of 12,500 words for a one-session project or 25,000 words for a two-session project.

Examination

Two examiners, one of whom may be the supervisor, shall be appointed for each thesis by the School of Law. The final date for submission of the thesis shall be the last day of session for which the candidate is registered for the thesis or such other date as the examiners may agree.

Examiners may require a candidate to attend an oral examination on the subject matter of the thesis; examiners may require a thesis to be re-submitted under such conditions as the examiners may determine.
LAWS6829
Issues in Australian Social Security Law and Policy
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
This course examines the broad structure of the social security system in Australia and focuses in particular on its intersection with other areas of law. After outlining the form of Australian social security law and the range of benefits, pensions and allowances available under the Social Security Act 1991 (Cth), the course will focus on several key areas: unemployment, payments for families (including sole parent pension, family payments and the Child Support Scheme), and the social security implications of compensation for injuries (both common law and statute). In addition, the course will examine the structures for reviewing decisions made under the Social Security Act.

LAWS6919
Civil Liberties and the Law
Staff Contact: Ms Melinda Jones
CP20 SS HPW2
It is generally thought that Australia is a democracy, a free Western society. Yet all too often the content of freedom and the idea of democracy are taken for granted. This course examines the requirements of freedom and democracy, and sets about assessing the extent to which Australian law is the guardian of civil liberties or its detractor. The concern of this course is with the treatment of Australian minorities: Aborigines, Communists, Seventh Day Adventists, women: with issues arising from the multicultural nature of Australian society; and with the exercise of personal freedom independent of constraints imposed by the state. Topics covered will include the constitutional protection of liberty; common law rights in theory and practice; voting rights and political freedom; freedom of the individual such as privacy, and public morality; and equality and economic rights.

LAWS6929
Indigenous Legal Issues
Staff Contact: Prof Garth Nettheim
CP20 SS HPW2
A study of laws relating to Australia's Indigenous peoples, and of the impact of general law on Aborigines and Torres Strait islanders.

Topics include: elements of pre-contact and post-contact history; questions of definition and identity; the nature of Indigenous law, and Australian responses to Indigenous laws; issues of sovereignty and autonomy; statutory land rights and native title; issues of racial discrimination, criminal justice and child welfare; proposals for 'Reconciliation'.

Reference is made to developments in international law and to comparative material from countries such as Canada, USA and New Zealand.

LAWS8009
Legal Reasoning
Staff Contact: Dr Arthur Glass
CP20 SS HPW2
Legal reasoning and legal interpretation are activities central to legal practice. This subject examines such matters as the extent to which legal reasoning and legal interpretation can be explained as rational procedures and what it means here to justify an argument or an interpretation. These questions will be approached by way of a discussion of contemporary writings in philosophy of law and by a consideration of other related disciplines (for example hermeneutics and rhetoric).

LAWS8019
Law, Language and Power
Staff Contact: Mr Dirk Meure
CP20 SS HPW2
An examination of the relationship between law, language and power as considered from a number of theoretical approaches.

Topics include: 1 Introduction to discourse theory; 2 The order of discourse, the politics of truth, governmentality, (Foucault); 3 Law and literature; 4 legal discourse and languages of law (Goodrich); 5 feminist critiques of legal discourse (Bill and Butler); 6 law and theories of interpretation.

LAWS8029
Law and the Social Sciences A: Law and Economics
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
An examination of the law and its institutions, techniques and purposes through the application of the concepts and methodology of economic theory. The economic approach to law has had a major influence in the USA and is also establishing itself in other countries. Law and legal institutions affect the allocation and distribution of resources. Without presupposition of any particular political or ideological perspective, the theoretical and empirical methods of economics can illuminate the nature of law.

The subject will aim to introduce students to selected economic techniques and concepts and to provide an awareness of the range of legal subject matter susceptible to economic analysis.

LAWS8039
Law and the Social Sciences B: Law and Politics
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
A thematically focussed investigation of the relationships between law and political power. The course will investigate the major ways in which law and politics interact. The approach will be comparative and will draw upon a range of contemporary and historical case-studies. Three approaches especially will be discussed: (1) Law as an instrument of power; (2) Law as a means of legitimising power; (3) Law as a restraint on power.
LAWS8109
European Union: Institutions and Legal Systems
Staff Contact: Dr Stephen Hall
CP15 SS HPW2
A comprehensive introduction to the constitutional history, institutional structure and legal system of the unique quasi-federation which is the European Union.
Particular attention will be paid to the composition, powers and functions of the main legislative and executive organs (Council, Commission and European Parliament) and to the judicial organs (European Court of Justice and Court of First Instance). The course will then focus on the most important aspects of the legal system: supremacy and direct effect of Union law; 'general' principles of law including fundamental rights; Union citizenship; the role of Union and national courts in enforcing and applying Union law.

LAWS8119
Trade Law of the European Union
Staff Contact: Dr Stephen Hall
CP15 SS HPW2
A comprehensive introduction to the substantive law of the European Union; the world's largest integrated market economy and a principal economic and trade partner for both Australia and the Asia-Pacific region.
The Common Market and the Internal Market with particular reference to: the free movement of goods, persons, services and capital; the Common Commercial Policy towards non-EU countries; Introduction to EU competition law; Economic and Monetary Union; State Aids.

LAWS8439
Modern Civil Law Systems
Staff Contact: Dr Richard Bauman
CP20 SS HPW2
Law students in this modern age are finding that they require some knowledge of European law. Comparative law contributes to that objective and also helps to clarify our thoughts about our own law. The aim of this subject is to acquaint students with the principles and methods of comparative law in a practical way, by focussing on and comparing:
French private law, which is based on Roman law as modified by the French Civil Code (the Code Napoleon). These elements form the basis of much of modern European Civil Law. This component will be expounded in formal lectures; with Australian private law, This component will, after an introductory lecture, be developed in class papers presented by students.
The following topics are covered: the structure and operation of the French superior courts, with special reference to judicial precedent; family law, with special reference to divorce; property, with special reference to abuse of rights; contract, with special reference to general principles; and tort, with special reference to 'fault'.

LAWS8449
Trade and Investment in Japan
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
The aim of this course is to expose students to the practical expectation which Australian legal practitioners and advisers may reasonably hold in their dealings in Japan and Japanese corporations. To familiarise students with the legal, political, economic and cultural sources and contexts of regulatory power in Japan the following topics will be examined:
Introduction to Japan; Japanese psychology (including the concepts of amae, honne, tatemae, girl, on and nintai); the legal system and legal profession, the 'Japan Inc. Triumvirate' (the relationships between politicians, bureaucrats and private enterprise) administrative guidance and the Administrative Procedures Law 1993, company law, corporations (sogo shosha and keiretsu), establishing a foreign operation, dispute resolution and commercial arbitration, contract law, antimonopoly law, intellectual property, the tendering process, banking finance and securities, consumer awareness and marketing, product liability, negotiating with the Japanese and the practical etiquette of doing business in Japan. These topics may vary according to the availability of local and visiting guest speakers.

LAWS8459
Pacific Islands Legal Systems
Staff Contact: Dr Owen Jessep
CP20 SS HPW2
An introduction to the emerging legal systems of the Pacific Islands states, including issues of constitutional development, the recognition and application of customary law, modern and traditional legal institutions, land tenure regimes, personal law, and the legal recognition of economic activity, such as international trade, foreign investment and national resources projects. In addition to surveying the position of particular states, there will also be consideration of the nature and role of regional organisations, such as the South Pacific Forum and the Forum Fishing Agency.

LAWS8479
Islamic Law
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2
Islamic Law is one of the wellknown legal systems of the world. Australia has important cultural and trade relations with a number of Asian and African countries where Islamic Law is applicable in many areas of the administration of justice. The subject is taught from a comparative point of view of the common law principles. Topics include: sources of Islamic Law, family law, women's rights, succession, crime and punishment, commercial law, finance and banking law without interest, international law, human rights, comparative study of Islamic law with other legal systems and law reforms.
LAWS8489
International Trade and Investment Law in the People's Republic of China
Staff Contact: School Office
CP20 SS HPW2

China is forecast to be one of the largest trading nations by the early 21st Century. This course discusses the economic, political and legal environments for trade and investment in China. It examines the origins and effects of China's 'Open Door Policy' and economic and legal reforms implemented since the landmark change of direction in 1978 as China moves to establish and institutionalize a socialist market economy. Topics include: an introduction to the Chinese legal system and constitutional framework; history of trade in China and economic reform; foreign trade and investment laws and policies, including contract law, investment vehicles (joint and wholly-owned ventures), technology transfer, intellectual property, company law, banking and finance, foreign exchange controls, securities regulation, labour law, land use, special economic zones, and dispute resolution. Special topics may also be considered including Hong Kong and Macao's approach toward resumption of PRC sovereignty, and Taiwan and the 'one country, two systems' policy.

LAWS8499
Japanese Law
Staff Contact: Ms Annette Marfording
CP20 SS HPW2

This course is intended to convey an introduction to the Japanese legal system in its historical, cultural, political and economic context. By the end of the course, students should have developed an understanding of the relationships between Japanese society and attitude to law, legal institutions and substantive law.

Japanese law provides a superb opportunity to examine the role of law in affecting social change. By the end of the course, students should have developed an understanding of the possibilities and limitations of using law as a tool of social engineering.

The course will introduce students to the study of comparative law by looking at issues such as the classification of legal systems into families of law and the reception of foreign law. By the end of the course, students should have developed an informed view on the classification of Japanese law and should be able to discuss the possibilities and limitations in transplanting law from one country to another.

Students will learn to analyse and evaluate legal institutions and substantive laws of a foreign legal system and to compare them in a meaningful way with similar laws and institutions in the Australian legal system. They will develop skills to critically assess whether, and if so what, Australia can learn from Japan in a legal context. Students will be introduced to the background knowledge necessary to advise on business transactions with Japanese companies, foreign investment in Japan and its barriers and the Japanese system of dispute resolution.

LAWS8509
Advanced Issues in International Law
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

Prerequisite: LAWS8530 or equivalent.

This subject will study selected currently relevant topics of public international law in more depth than is available/possible in the basic Public International Law course. The focus of the subject will vary from year to year depending on current international events. The operation of the rules of International law will be examined and assessed 'in action' in the context of the chosen topic/event. In 1996 the topic was international criminal law and the establishment of a permanent international criminal jurisdiction.

LAWS8519
Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject examines the adjudicatory and non-adjudicatory procedures for settling disputes between States. The subject will examine the role of negotiation, good offices, mediation and conciliation and the role of the UN in settling international disputes peacefully. It will then examine the system of inter-state arbitration, both ad-hoc and that occurring within the framework of established tribunals such as the Iran-US Claims Tribunal and ICSID. The practice and procedure of the International Court of Justice in both its contentious and its advisory capacity will be examined, as will settlement mechanisms for resolving international disputes about human rights.

LAWS8529
International Commercial Arbitration
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

Many cases of injury to multinational companies which would formerly have been pursued as a diplomatic claim by the national State of the company are now resolved by arbitration directly between the company and the respondent State. In this sense, international commercial arbitration can be seen as a natural extension of inter-State dispute settlement procedures, of great and growing importance. This subject will examine the law and practice relating to the arbitral process and recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards. Reference will be made to the Model Arbitral Rules and the case law emanating from a number of Arbitral Bodies and Tribunals such as the ICC, UNCITRAL, ICSID and to the decisions of ad-hoc arbitral tribunals.

LAW8539
History and Theory of International Law
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject will examine some of the fundamental issues underlying international law, against the background of its history. Attention will be paid both to classical analysis of the nature of international law (positivism and its alternatives) and to some of the recent critiques of international law from perspectives such as critical legal studies, feminist legal theory, international relations theory, etc. Particular topics to be examined will be chosen having regard to the interests of students taking the course.

LAW8549
International Organisations
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject will examine the law of international institutions with particular reference to the United Nations and Specialized Agencies and the law of regional organizations, such as the organizations of the European Union, the Organization of American States, the Organization of African Unity, ASEAN and the South Pacific Forum. Common institutional problems will be examined as will the impact of international organization on the doctrine of sovereign equality of States.

LAW8559
Law of the Sea
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject will examine the legal regime which binds States in their international relations concerning maritime matters. The subject will examine the major maritime zones recognised in international law, such as the territorial sea, the contiguous and exclusive economic zones, the high seas, and the legal regime relating to the continental shelf. It will also examine the rules relating to the various uses of the seas, such as fishing, navigation, scientific research, regulation of marine pollution and military uses of the sea. It will examine the way in which disputes over conflicting uses of the seas arise and the manner in which they are handled and will look at the interrelationship between the public international law of the sea and municipal law.

LAW8569
Legal Regulation of the Use of Force
Staff Contact: Ms Rosemary Rayfuse
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject will cover the law on the use of force and the law and practice relating to United Nations enforcement action and peace-keeping operations. The subject will examine the limitations, both pre- and post-UN Charter, on the unilateral use of force by States. It will then examine the system for collective measures established by the UN Charter and regional organisations, including regional peace-keeping. Finally, it will examine cases of ad-hoc improvisation by the UN in default of an established system of peace-keeping and collective security and the recent UN developments towards a firmly established system.

LAW8579
Personal Status Law in South-East Asia
Staff Contact: Dr Gail Pearson/Prue Vines
CP20 SS HPW2

This subject investigates the law relating to the individual, the family and inheritance in selected South-East Asian countries. The countries focused on include Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand, Indonesia and Malaysia. The subject includes an historical background to the legal systems, the common themes being colonialism and the reception of new legal systems, and the role of religious law. We then consider the countries in turn. Topics include: The tension between the concept of individual rights in secular law and the law of community status and obligations will be the focus of the material on the individual. The concept of citizenship or nationality, the rights of individuals and minorities under the constitution, status and gender, and state responsibilities, if any, for individuals. The general pattern of family in the particular cultures and who is regarded as significant in the family for particular purposes - for example, for debt, tax, inheritance or living arrangements. The requirements for marriage and the obligations arising from it, and whether divorce is permitted and its consequences. The child and rights and obligations in relation to the child from the parents and the state. The law of inheritance - whether the laws of inheritance are customary, religious or statutory, and what property is transmissible.

LAW8589
Law and Religion in India
Staff Contact: Dr KM Sharma/ Dr Gail Pearson
CP20 SS HPW2

The overall aim of this course is to examine the interaction of religious tradition and Constitutional ideals in India and to trace the attempted transition from religious tradition to secular modernity.

The following topics are covered: the classical (shastric) Hindu law in the context of the caste system and schools within Hindu orthodoxy; the Islamic (sharia) law as applied to Muslims in India; British efforts to understand and administer Hindu and Islamic law and the personal laws of other religious communities; the interaction between English legal notions and indigenous Indian ideas and institutions; the modern Indian legal system, the Constitution and religion; state aid to denominational institutions, excommunication, sati, untouchability, conscientious objection, dowry, temple entry; a Uniform Civil Code.
LAWS8599
Legal Aspects of Business in India

*Faculty of Science and Technology: †Faculty of Life Sciences.

Doctor of Juridical Science (SJD)

1. The degree of Doctor of Juridical Science may be awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Higher Degree Committee of the Faculty of Law (hereinafter referred to as the Committee) to a candidate who after satisfactorily completing a qualifying program comprising 8 single semester units in the LLM by Coursework degree has through the submission of a thesis based on his or her research made an original and significant contribution to knowledge in the field of law.

Qualifications

2. (1) A candidate for the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Committee, and shall have completed the qualifying program to an approved standard. The standard required is an average of 75% or better in the candidate's best 6 (of 8) coursework subjects in the qualifying program, excluding the subject Legal Research. In addition, a research proposal must be submitted as soon as feasible after completion of 6 of the 8 coursework subjects in the qualifying program. Admission to the SJD will be conditional on the viability of the research proposal.

(2) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committee may be permitted to enrol for the degree.

(3) If the Committee is not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant, the Committee may require the applicant to undergo such assessment or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe before permitting enrolment.

Enrolment

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be made on the prescribed form which shall be lodged with the November or May before the commencement of the session in which enrolment is to begin.

(2) In every case before making the offer of a place the Committee shall be satisfied that initial agreement has been reached between the School* and the applicant on the provision of adequate facilities to be prescribed and that these are in accordance with the provisions of the guidelines for promoting postgraduate study within the University.

(3) The candidate shall be enrolled as either a full-time or part-time student.

(4) A full-time candidate will present the thesis for examination no earlier than 2 years and no later than 3 years from the date of enrolment for the SJD degree (ie after completion of the qualifying program) and a part-time candidate will present the thesis no earlier than 4 years and no later than 6 years from the date of enrolment, except with the approval of the committee.

(5) The candidate must complete the qualifying program as an internal student; that is at a campus, or other approved facility with which the University is associated. He or she may undertake the research as an internal student or as an external student who is not in attendance at the University except for such periods as may be prescribed by the Committee.

(6) An internal candidate will normally carry out the research on a campus or at a teaching or research facility of the University except that the Committee may permit a candidate to spend a period in the field, within another institution or elsewhere away from the University provided that the work can be supervised in a manner satisfactory to the Committee. In such instances the Committee shall be satisfied that the location and period of time away from the University are necessary to the research program.

(7) The research shall be supervised by a supervisor and where possible a co-supervisor who are members of the academic staff of the School or under other appropriate supervision arrangements approved by the Committee. Normally an external candidate within another organisation or institution will have a co-supervisor at that institution.

* 'School' is used here and elsewhere in these conditions to mean any teaching unit authorised to enrol research students and includes a department where that department is not within a school, a centre given approval by the Academic Board to enrol students, and an interdisciplinary unit within a faculty and under the control of the Dean of the Faculty. Enrolment is permitted in more than one such teaching unit.

Progression

4. The progress of the candidate shall be considered by the Committee following a report from the School in accordance with the procedures established within the School and previously noted by the Committee.

(1) The progress of a candidate during both the qualifying program and the period of research shall be reviewed at least once annually, and as a result of any such review the Committee may cancel enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate.

Thesis

5. (1) On completing the program of study a candidate shall submit a thesis of between 60,000 and 70,000 words which makes an original and significant contribution in the field of law.
(2) The candidate shall give in writing to the Registrar two months notice of intention to submit the thesis.

(3) The thesis shall present an account of the candidate's own research.

(4) Three copies of the thesis shall be presented in a form which complies with the requirements of the University for the preparation and submission of theses for higher degrees.

(5) It shall be understood that the University retains the three copies of the thesis submitted for examination and is free to allow the thesis to be consulted or borrowed. Subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1968, the University may issue the thesis in whole or in part, in photostat or microfilm or other copying medium.

Examination

6. (1) There shall be not fewer than three examiners of the thesis, appointed by the Committee, at least two of whom shall be external to the University unless the Committee is satisfied that this is not practicable.

(2) At the conclusion of the examination each examiner shall submit to the Committee a concise report on the thesis and shall recommend to the Committee that:

(a) The thesis merits the award of the degree, or
(b) The thesis merits the award of the degree subject to minor corrections as listed being made to the satisfaction of the Head of School, or
(c) The thesis requires further work on matters detailed in my report. Should performance in this further work be to the satisfaction of the Higher Degree Committee, the thesis would merit the award of the degree, or
(d) The thesis does not merit the award of the degree in its present form and further work as described in my report is required. The revised thesis should be subject to re-examination, or
(e) The thesis does not merit the award of the degree and does not demonstrate that resubmission would be likely to achieve that merit,

(3) If the performance at the further work recommended under (2)(c) above is not to the satisfaction of the Committee, the Committee may permit the candidate to re-present the same thesis and submit to further examination as determined by the Committee within a period specified by it but not exceeding eighteen months.

(4) The Committee shall, after consideration of the examiners' reports and the results of any further work, recommend whether or not the candidate may be awarded the degree. If it is decided that the candidate be not awarded the degree the Committee shall determine whether or not the candidate be permitted to resubmit the thesis after a further period of study and/or research. If the decision of the Committee results non-award of the SJD the candidate may take out a Master of Laws degree on the basis of the coursework completed before the SJD thesis.

Fees

7. A candidate shall pay such fees for the qualifying program as may be determined from time to time by the Council.
Doctor of Philosophy (PhD)

1. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy may be awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Higher Degree Committee of the appropriate faculty or board (hereinafter referred to as the Committee) to a candidate who has made an original and significant contribution to knowledge.

Qualifications

2. (1) A candidate for the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor with Honours from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Committee.

(2) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committee may be permitted to enrol for the degree.

(3) If the Committee is not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant the Committee may require the applicant to undergo such assessment or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe, before permitting enrolment as a candidate for the degree.

Enrolment

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be lodged with the Registrar at least one month prior to the date at which enrolment is to begin.

(2) In every case before making the offer of a place the Committee shall be satisfied that initial agreement has been reached between the School and the applicant on the topic area, supervision arrangements, provision of adequate facilities and any coursework to be prescribed and that these are in accordance with the provisions of the guidelines for promoting postgraduate study within the University.

(3) The candidate shall be enrolled either as a full-time or a part-time student.

(4) A full-time candidate will present the thesis for examination no earlier than three years and no later than five years from the date of enrolment and a part-time candidate will present the thesis for examination no earlier than four years and no later than six years from the date of enrolment, except with the approval of the Committee.

(5) The candidate may undertake the research as an internal student i.e. at a campus, teaching hospital, or other research facility with which the University is associated, or as an external student not in attendance at the University except for periods as may be prescribed by the Committee.

(6) An internal candidate will normally carry out the research on a campus or at a teaching or research facility of the University except that the Committee may permit a candidate to spend a period in the field, within another institution or elsewhere away from the University provided that the work can be supervised in a manner satisfactory to the Committee. In such instances the Committee shall be satisfied that the location and period of time away from the University are necessary to the research program.

(7) The research shall be supervised by a supervisor and where possible a co-supervisor who are members of the academic staff of the School or under other appropriate supervision arrangements approved by the Committee. Normally an external candidate within another organisation or institution will have a co-supervisor at that institution.

Progression

4. The progress of the candidate shall be considered by the Committee following report from the School in accordance with the procedures established within the School and previously noted by the Committee.

(i) The research proposal will be reviewed as soon as feasible after enrolment. For a full-time student this will normally be during the first year of study, or immediately following a period of prescribed coursework. This review will focus on the viability of the research proposal.
(ii) Progress in the course will be reviewed within twelve months of the first review. As a result of either review the Committee may cancel enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate. Thereafter, the progress of the candidate will be reviewed annually.

Thesis

5. (1) On completing the program of study a candidate shall submit a thesis embodying the results of the investigation.

(2) The candidate shall give in writing to the Registrar two months notice of intention to submit the thesis.

(3) The thesis shall comply with the following requirements:
   (a) it must be an original and significant contribution to knowledge of the subject;
   (b) the greater proportion of the work described must have been completed subsequent to enrolment for the degree;
   (c) it must be written in English except that a candidate in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences may be required by the Committee to write a thesis in an appropriate foreign language;
   (d) it must reach a satisfactory standard of expression and presentation;
   (e) it must consist of an account of the candidate’s own research but in special cases work done conjointly with other persons may be accepted provided the Committee is satisfied about the extent of the candidate’s part in the joint research.

(4) The candidate may not submit as the main content of the thesis any work or material which has previously been submitted for a university degree or other similar award but may submit any work previously published whether or not such work is related to the thesis.

(5) Four copies of the thesis shall be presented in a form which complies with the requirements of the University for the preparation and submission of theses for higher degrees.

(6) It shall be understood that the University retains the four copies of the thesis submitted for examination and is free to allow the thesis to be consulted or borrowed. Subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1968, the University may issue the thesis in whole or in part, in photostat or microfilm or other copying medium.

Examination

6. (1) There shall be not fewer than three examiners of the thesis, appointed by the Committee, at least two of whom shall be external to the University.

(2) At the conclusion of the examination each examiner shall submit to the Committee a concise report on the thesis and shall recommend to the Committee that one of the following:
   (a) The thesis merits the award of the degree.
   (b) The thesis merits the award of the degree subject to minor corrections as listed being made to the satisfaction of the head of school.
   (c) The thesis requires further work on matters detailed in my report. Should performance in this further work be to the satisfaction of the higher degree Committee, the thesis would merit the award of the degree.
   (d) The thesis does not merit the award of the degree in its present form and further work as described in my report is required. The revised thesis should be subject to re-examination.
   (e) The thesis does not merit the award of the degree and does not demonstrate that resubmission would be likely to achieve that merit.

(3) If the performance in the further work recommended under (2)(c) above is not to the satisfaction of the Committee, the Committee may permit the candidate to submit the thesis for re-examination as determined by the Committee within a period determined by it but not exceeding eighteen months.

(4) After consideration of the examiners’ reports and the results of any further examination of the thesis, the Committee may require the candidate to submit to written or oral examination before recommending whether or not the candidate be awarded the degree. If it is decided that the candidate be not awarded the degree, the Committee shall determine whether or not the candidate be permitted to resubmit the thesis after a further period of study and/or research.

Fees

7. A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.

“School’ is used here and elsewhere in these conditions to mean any teaching unit authorised to enrol research students and includes a department where that department is not within a school, a centre given approval by the Academic Board to enrol students, and an interdisciplinary unit within a faculty and under the control of the Dean of the Faculty. Enrolment is permitted in more than one such teaching unit.

Master of Laws (LLM)

1. The degree of Master of Laws by research may be awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Higher Degree Committee of the Faculty of Law (hereinafter referred to as the Committee) to a candidate who has demonstrated ability to undertake research by the submission of a thesis embodying the results of an original investigation.

Qualifications

2. (1) A candidate for the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Committee.

(2) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committee may be permitted to enrol for the degree.

(3) When the Committee is not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant the Committee may require the applicant, before being permitted to enrol, to undergo such examination or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe.

Enrolment and Progression

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be made on the prescribed form which shall be lodged with the Registrar at least one calendar month before the commencement of the session in which enrolment is to begin.

(2) In every case before making the offer of a place the Committee shall be satisfied that initial agreement has been reached between the School and the applicant on the topic area, supervision arrangements, provision of adequate facilities and any coursework to be prescribed and that these are in accordance with the provisions of the guidelines for promoting postgraduate study within the University.

(3) The candidate shall be enrolled as either a full-time or part-time student.

(4) A candidate shall be required to undertake an original investigation on an approved topic. The candidate may also be required to undergo such examination and perform such other work as may be prescribed by the Committee.

(5) The research shall be supervised by a supervisor or supervisors who are members of the academic staff of the School, or under other appropriate supervision arrangements approved by the Committee. Normally an external candidate within another organisation or institution will have a co-supervisor at that institution.

(6) Full-time and part-time (or external) candidates for the degree shall submit, within one or two sessions of enrolment respectively, a substantial piece of written work forming part of or relating to the approved topic. If this work is unsatisfactory or not forthcoming, the Committee will review the candidate’s enrolment. In any case, the progress of a candidate shall be reviewed annually by the Committee following a report by the candidate, the supervisor and the head of the school, and as a result of such review the Committee may cancel enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate.

(7) No candidate shall be granted the degree until the lapse of three academic sessions in the case of a full-time candidate or four academic sessions in the case of a part-time or external candidate from the date of enrolment. In the case of a candidate who has been awarded the degree of Bachelor with Honours or the equivalent of Honours or who has had previous research experience the Committee may approve remission of up to one session for a full-time candidate and two sessions for a part-time or external candidate.

(8) A full-time candidate for the degree shall present for examination not later than six academic sessions from the date of enrolment. A part-time or external candidate for the degree shall present for examination not later than ten academic sessions from the date of enrolment. In special cases an extension of these times may be granted by the Committee.

(9) The candidate may undertake the research as an internal student, i.e. at a campus, teaching hospital, or other research facility with which the University is associated, or as an external student not in attendance at the University except for periods as may be prescribed by the Committee.

(10) An internal candidate will normally carry out the research on a campus or at a teaching or research facility of the University except that the Committee may permit a candidate to spend a period in the field, within another institution or elsewhere away from the University provided that the work can be supervised in a manner satisfactory to the Committee. In such instances the Committee shall be satisfied that the location and period of time away from the University are necessary to the research program.

Thesis

4. (1) On completing the program of study a candidate shall submit a thesis embodying the results of the original investigation.

(2) The candidate shall give in writing two months notice of intention to submit the thesis.

(3) The thesis shall present an account of the candidate's own research. In special cases work done conjointly with other persons may be accepted, provided the Committee is satisfied about the extent of the candidate's part in the joint research.

(4) Three copies of the thesis shall be presented in a form which complies with the requirements of the University for the preparation and submission of higher degree theses.

(5) It shall be understood that the University retains the three copies of the thesis submitted for examination and is free to allow the thesis to be consulted or borrowed. Subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1968, the University may issue the thesis in whole or in part, in photostat or microfilm or other copying medium.

Examination

5. (1) There shall be not fewer than two examiners of the thesis, appointed by the Committee, at least one of whom shall be external to the University unless the Committee is satisfied that this is not practicable.

(2) At the conclusion of the examination each examiner shall submit to the Committee a concise report on the merits of the thesis and shall recommend to the Committee that:

(a) the thesis merits the award of the degree; or

(b) the thesis merits the award of the degree subject to minor corrections as listed being made to the satisfaction of the head of School; or

(c) the thesis requires further work on matters detailed in the examiner's report. Should performance in this further work be to the satisfaction of the Higher Degree Committee, the thesis would merit the award of the degree; or

(d) the thesis does not merit the award of the degree in its present form and further work as described in the examiner's report is required. The revised thesis should be subject to re-examination; or
(e) the thesis does not merit the award of the degree and does not demonstrate that resubmission would be likely to achieve that merit.

(3) If the performance at the further examination recommended under (2)(c) above is not to the satisfaction of the Committee, the Committee may permit the candidate to re-present the same thesis and submit to a further oral, practical or written examination within a period specified by it but not exceeding eighteen months:

(4) The Committee shall, after consideration of the examiners' reports and the reports of any oral or written or practical examination, recommend whether or not the candidate may be awarded the degree. If it is decided that the candidate be not awarded the degree the Committee shall determine whether or not the candidate may resubmit the thesis after a further period of study and/or research.

Fees

6. A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.

Master of Laws by Coursework (LLM)

1. The degree of Master of Laws by Coursework may be awarded by the Council to a candidate who has satisfactorily completed a program of advanced study.

Qualifications

2. (1) A candidate for the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Higher Degree Committee of the Faculty of Law (hereinafter referred to as the Committee).

(2) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committee may be permitted to enrol for the degree.

(3) When the Committee is not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant the Committee may require the applicant, before being permitted to enrol, to undergo such examination or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe.

Enrolment and Progression

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be made on the prescribed form which shall be lodged with the Registrar at least two calendar months before the commencement of the session in which enrolment is to begin.

(2) A candidate for the degree shall be required to undertake such formal subjects and pass such assessment as is prescribed.

(3) The progress of a candidate shall be reviewed at least once annually by the Committee and as a result of its review the Committee may cancel enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate.

(4) No candidate shall be awarded the degree until the lapse of two academic sessions from the date of enrolment in the case of a full-time candidate or four sessions in the case of a part-time candidate. The maximum period of candidature shall be four academic sessions from the date of enrolment for a full-time candidate and eight sessions for a part-time candidate. In special cases an extension of these times may be granted by the Committee.

Fees

4. A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.
Master of Law and Management (MLM)

1. The degree of Master of Law and Management may be awarded by the council to a candidate who has satisfactorily completed a program of advanced study approved by the Higher Degree Committees of the Faculty of Law and the Australian Graduate School of Management (hereinafter referred to as the Committees).

Qualifications

2. (1) Applicant for enrolment in the degree shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor of Laws from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution at a level acceptable to the Committees.
(2) Applicants shall in addition have had a minimum of two years' relevant work experience.
(3) In exceptional cases an applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional qualifications as may be approved by the Committees may be permitted to enrol for the degree.
(4) If the Committees are not satisfied with the qualifications submitted by an applicant the Committees may require the applicant to undergo such assessment or carry out such work as the Committees may prescribe, before permitting enrolment.

Enrolment and Progression

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be made on the prescribed form which shall be lodged with the Registrar at least two calendar months before the commencement of the session in which enrolment is to begin.
(2) Applicants shall in addition submit a study plan for approval by the Committees, which outlines the subjects that they wish to take and explains the relationship between these subjects and their current and future career development. The Committees may delegate this function to the Program Director.
(3) A candidate for the degree shall be required to undertake such formal subjects and pass such assessment as is prescribed by the Committees.
(4) The progress of a candidate during the period of candidature shall be reviewed at least once annually, and as a result of any such review the Committees may cancel enrolment or take such other action as they consider appropriate.
(5) No candidate shall be awarded the degree until the lapse of three academic sessions from the date of enrolment in the case of a full-time candidate or five sessions in the case of a part-time candidate. The maximum period of candidature shall be six academic sessions from the date of enrolment for a full-time candidate and twelve sessions for a part-time candidate. In special cases an extension of these times may be granted by the Committees.

Fees

4. (1) A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.
Graduate Diploma (GradDip)

1. A Graduate Diploma may be awarded by the Council to a candidate who has satisfactorily completed an approved program of study.

Qualifications

2. (1) A candidate for the Diploma shall have been awarded an appropriate degree of Bachelor of Laws from the University of New South Wales or a qualification considered equivalent from another university or tertiary institution, at a level acceptable to the Higher Degree Committee of the Faculty of Law (hereinafter referred to as the Committee).

(2) An applicant who submits evidence of such other academic and professional attainment, as may be approved by the Committee, may be permitted to enrol for the Diploma.

(3) If the Committee is not satisfied with the qualification submitted by an applicant the Committee may require the applicant to undergo such assessment or carry out such work as the Committee may prescribe, before permitted enrolment.

Enrolment and Progression

3. (1) An application to enrol as a candidate for the degree shall be made on the prescribed form which shall be lodged with the Registrar by the advertised closing date, which shall be at least two calendar months before the commencement of the session in which the enrolment is to begin.

(2) A candidate for the diploma shall be required to undertake the subjects, and pass any assessment, prescribed.

(3) The progress of a candidate shall be reviewed by the end of two sessions by the Committee and as a result of its review the Committee may cancel the enrolment or take such other action as it considers appropriate.

(4) The normal duration of the course is two academic sessions from the date of enrolment in the case of a full-time candidate or four sessions in the case of part-time candidate. In special circumstances a variation of these times may be approved by the Head of School.

Fees

4. A candidate shall pay such fees as may be determined from time to time by the Council.
The scholarships listed below are available to students whose courses are listed in this book. Each Faculty Handbook contains in its scholarships section the scholarships available for study in that Faculty. Travel scholarships are shown separately. Applicants should note that the scholarships and their conditions are subject to review and the closing dates for awards may vary from year to year.

Scholarship information is regularly included in the University publication 'Uniken/Focus' and updated on the UNSW Web site http://www.unsw.edu.au/information.

Students investigating study opportunities overseas should also consult Study Abroad which is published by UNESCO and is available in the University library. The British Council (02 9326 2365) may be of assistance for information about study in Britain. The Australian–American Education Foundation (02 6247 9331) or the U.S. Consulate General Educational Advising Centre (02 9373 9230) can provide information about study in America. Information may also be obtained from the embassy or consulate of the country in which the study is proposed and from the proposed overseas institution. • Up to 2 years

The scholarships are tenable for a higher degree in Law in the United Kingdom. Selection for the scholarship will be based on academic and personal achievements. The Selection Committee will seek individuals who are likely to attain prominence in Australia as demonstrated by their record of leadership, extra-curricular activities and interest in the service of others. Applicants must be Australian citizens of at least five years standing as residents. Information and applications are available from The Executive Director, The Sir Robert Menzies Memorial Foundation, 210 Clarendon Street, East Melbourne, Victoria 3002. Applications may also be downloaded from the Foundation’s website at http://www.vicnet.net.au/menzies. Applications close mid-August.
The following information summarises prizes awarded by the University. Prizes are grouped by level as follows: Undergraduate, common Undergraduate/Postgraduate, Postgraduate. Within these groups prizes are listed under the faculty, school or department in which they are awarded. Prizes which are not specific to any school are listed under General. Law prizes are awarded only for students enrolled in the LLB or Jurisprudence courses.
